

Disgrace of Arrest Causes Prominent Berkeley Man to Commit Suicide

MARK MANCHESTER, ART CONNOISSEUR, ENDS LIFE
Leaves Two Notes, in Which He Tells of Determination to Die Rather Than Face Serious Charge

Mark Manchester, probably one of the most noted art connoisseurs on the Pacific Coast, was found dead in his chair in the pantry of his home at 2360 Ellsworth street, Berkeley, at 8 o'clock this morning as the result of gas asphyxiation. His suicide is the direct result of his arrest last Monday evening on a charge of misdemeanor committed in the presence of Edward Belle-Oudry Jr., the 7-year-old son of Edward Belle-Oudry, photographer. Manchester was under $500 bail to appear in the Berkeley court this afternoon at 2 o'clock for arraignment.

Manchester was a native of London, England, where for a number of years he was manager of Drummond's Limited Banking Concern. About six years ago he was retired on pension and seeking to better the health of his daughter Ida came to this city, where he has since made his home. His family is one of the most prominent in Berkeley and moved in the highest social circles.

Travels Extensively in Europe
Previous to coming to Berkeley Manchester traveled extensively in Europe, where he made a collection of the prints and etchings of some of the most noted artists. This collection of porcelains, brocades, etchings and canvases is considered the most rare on the coast, and he has three of the only original Turner water colors west of the Rocky Mountains.

Manchester's wife died about twenty-five years ago, and ever since that time he has devoted his life to the study of art. He has led a particularly sedentary life, confining himself to his home environments and artistic associations. He was regarded as an able art critic by all who knew him, and was esteemed as a gentleman of the most approved type.

Manchester was a man of a most artistic temperament, and it is believed that he was not over the distance of a mile from his home at the time of his death. He was found in the pantry of his home at 2360 Ellsworth street, Berkeley, at 8 o'clock this morning as the result of gas asphyxiation. His suicide is the direct result of his arrest last Monday evening on a charge of misdemeanor committed in the presence of Edward Belle-Oudry Jr., the 7-year-old son of Edward Belle-Oudry, photographer. Manchester was under $500 bail to appear in the Berkeley court this afternoon at 2 o'clock for arraignment.

Children Collapse
Both son and daughter have collapsed as a result of the tragedy, that has occurred in their lives. Neither can give any reason for the act which resulted in their father's arrest and subsequent suicide.

Blow is Unexpected
"Now comes the blow so unexpected, so tragic, that it has killed me, and I can no longer hold my head. May God ever keep you all and bless you always."

Leaves Warning
Her suspicions were confirmed when she found, protruding from the door, the following note:

FILE CONTEST TO WILL OF MRS. HENRY BUTTERS

Heirs Declare Woman Was Not Competent to Dispose of Her Property
SAY LAST DOCUMENT IS FRAUD AND NULL
Unusual Story is Made Public in Connection With Life of Millionaire

Charging that the will of the late Lucio Borge Butters, which creates a trust for her vast estate, was procured by the duress, menace and undue influence of the late Henry A. Butters, millionaire mining man and husband of the deceased, Joseph Paulding Butters, William B. Edwards, George B. Cook, Marie Butters and Margaret Butters children of Mrs. Butters, today filed their opposition to the probate of the will, in the probate department of the Superior Court. Henry A. Butters, Jr., does not figure as a principal in the suit on account of his minority, nor do David S. Edwards nor Mrs. Lucie Butters, the other children, who are guardians of young Borge.

Fond of Husband
Lucie Borge and Henry A. Butters were married in July, 1881, and remained husband and wife until the death of Butters in October, 1908. The couple lived happily and contentedly together until about the 15th day of October, 1907, when Butters deserted and abandoned his wife while they were living together at their residence in Piedmont.

Abandons His Wife
Finding that he could not induce Mrs. Butters to deed the property to him and as a last means of getting control of her wealth, Butters impudently and brazenly stated that she should put all of her property in a trust, he to be the trustee and to manage and control the property during his life. For the purpose of carrying out this demand he employed attorneys and had the trust instrument drawn and submitted to her for her signature and execution. Mrs. Butters finally refused to consent to the trust with the result that on the 26th day of February, 1908, Butters deserted and abandoned his wife and turned against her. He became very hostile towards her and she never saw him again to speak of him.

HARRY THAW SENT BACK TO INSANE ASYLUM

Court Decides That Stanford White's Slayer is Still Mentally Incompetent
KEEPERS INSTRUCTED TO TREAT CHARGE WELL
Judge Orders Renewal of Early Privileges For Prisoner and His Mother

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The State of New York won a complete victory over Harry K. Thaw today, when Justice Isaac N. Mills decided that the slayer of Stanford White was still insane and sent him back to the asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan.

Not one of the many contentions made by Thaw during the three weeks of his recent hearing was sustained. He is, however, somewhat better off than before he brought the present suit because Justice Mills in his decision suggested—and the suggestion amounts virtually to orders—that, Thaw at Matteawan, be restored to the privileges he enjoyed during the first three months of his stay there, and that his mother be allowed all the possible privileges and treated with every consideration when she calls to see him.

Still in Jail
Thaw will remain in the jail at least until tomorrow, when his attorney will be given a chance to make any formal motions before Justice Mills at his chambers in Mount Vernon.

Convinced by Alienists
The court says it was more convinced by the testimony of the alienists called for the state than by that of the prisoner's experts. Regarding Dr. Britton D. Evans, he says:

Refers to Mother
"An unusual paragraph in Justice Mills' opinion is devoted to Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, the prisoner's mother. The court says:

STATE FEDERATION OF REALTY DEALERS MEETS IN OAKLAND FOR SESSION

D. W. CARMICHAEL of Sacramento, President of California State Realty Federation.

DELEGATES ARE WELCOMED BY MAYOR MOTT

Session is Called to Order by D. W. Carmichael of Sacramento
INTERESTING PAPERS READ BY DELEGATES
Much Important Business to Be Transacted by the Members

The leading real estate men of this State came together this morning in Maple Hall in the fifth annual convention of the California State Realty Federation and the assembling took the form of a great family gathering, so hearty were the mutual greetings exchanged in the chamber before the exercises were formally opened.

The hour for the commencing of business had been fixed at 9 o'clock, but owing to the tardy arrival of belated trains, it was somewhat later when the gavel of Chairman Carmichael of Sacramento fell upon the table, and then only to take a recess until 11:15 to await delayed delegates.

The hall, one of the prettiest in the country, with its walls of glistening white, with a wealth of sunlight pouring in through windows on all sides and an artistic disposition of national flags, roses and leafage, presented a most beautiful appearance. The use of the place was donated to the Federation by the owner, B. F. Oliver.

Behind the president's chair the light afforded by a large window filtered through a cluster of six bright new national flags, the four small ensigns being grouped in a manner suggesting the rays of a sunburst, while the two larger standards were gracefully draped on either side. The effect was refined, artistic and patriotic.

Hall Prettily Decorated
On the east side of the hall the large entrance was curtained with national flags also, and guarded by growing trees and potted ferns and palms.

On the west side was an attractive collection of flowering shrubs, the extent and beauty of which were magnified and intensified by reflection in a rich plate mirror which extended from the floor to the cornice of the hall.

AUTOS CRASH IN DENSE FOG ON BEACH
MADMAN RUNS AMUCK AND TERRIFIES TOWN

Collision Kept Secret From Police, But Revealed by Injured Victim

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—John Mitchell, who gives his residence as San Jose, but who was brought to the Central Emergency Hospital from the Hotel Dale at 3:15 this morning, is believed to be one of the victims of a mysterious automobile accident which occurred south of the Cliff House shortly after midnight.

Attempt Secrecy
The wreck below the Cliff House was not reported to the police, but was a head-on collision between two machines, one driven by George W. Young, a farmer, and the other by John Blanchon, 73 Boyce street. In Young's machine, which sides himself, were W. H. Graham, a capitalist, and Frank Millett, a business man of Napa. Both cars were badly wrecked, and the accident was the result of the thick fog, which completely covered the boulevard and was not penetrated by the powerful lights. Mitchell is believed to have been in Blanchon's machine.

Residents of Fitchburg were terrorized last night for over two hours by a mad man who ran amuck through the streets brandishing a club and driving men and women before him in wild flight. After running through the main streets for a half hour, yelling and cursing at the top of his voice, the maniac started to wake up the residence section of the town.

A hurry-call was sent to Constable William Allen at Fruitvale, who drove to Fitchburg and, lone-handed, started on the trail of the terror of the community. After about a half-hour's search Allen located his man in the eastern portion of town, where he was pounding down a picket fence and yelling, "I'll kill you all!"

THREATENED LIFE WITH HIS PISTOL

Wife Alleges Husband Broke Into Bathroom to Murder Her

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Daisy Turney Krauss, wife of William F. Krauss, dean of the medical faculty of the University of Mississippi and a noted bacteriologist, has filed suit for divorce, alimony and the restoration of her maiden name.

Mrs. Krauss alleges that in December, 1907, her husband broke into her bathroom with a loaded revolver, saying that he was going to kill her. She begged him to wait until she could put on her bath robe, saying that she did not want to be disgraced by being killed while undressed. Then by a sudden dash, she says, the pistol was knocked from the physician's hands.

Sensational Career

Mrs. Krauss attained notoriety in San Francisco last May, when she charged Franklin H. Griffith, a mining promoter and attorney of Philadelphia, with defrauding her out of $10,000 and then went to New York and represented herself as his wife.

Dr. Krauss lately advertised legally through the press that he would not be responsible for debts contracted by his wife, who is a niece of Governor "Pete" Turney, Tennessee's great commoner.

TWO HUNDRED FOREIGN GIRLS HAVE VANISHED

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Commissioner of Immigration William H. Mackinnon is trying to ascertain the whereabouts of more than two hundred Swedish girls who in the last year have passed from Ellis Island into the keeping and care of the Swedish Lutheran Home at 5 Water street.

He has barred Andrew Dahlberg, the agent of the home, from Ellis Island. That order of exclusion also applies to Sister Hulda, a woman in the home. She was appointed last December by the Augustan Synod of the Lutheran Church in Chicago. Pastor Loh, who has charge of the home, disapproved Dahlberg today, as soon as he was informed of the charge made against him by Commissioner William H. Mackinnon.

Pastor Loh admitted that he has discovered that many Swedish immigrant girls whom Dahlberg said he had sent from the home to Water street at 202 Dean street Brooklyn, never reached there, and that he has no record of where Dahlberg sent them. The Federal and State prosecutors may be asked to aid in the search.

WELL KNOWN BANKER IN CHICO IS MARRIED

CHICO, Aug. 12.—A surprise was given on Friday of Banker Smith and Mrs. Daisy Brooks yesterday when the announcement was received that they had been married in Oakland and had started for Kansas to spend their honeymoon of one month. Considerable money surrounds the wedding, but this was explained by Smith, who is reported to have said:

"I came to Oakland on important business, and, as this interrupted my plans, I decided to have Mrs. Brooks follow me. She arrived and we were married, and that is all there is about it."

Despite the statements of the honeymoon that "that was all there is about it," the friends here are yet trying to decide why the couple went to Oakland to wed.

Smith was the organizer of the First National Bank of Chico, and holds the position of cashier. He came here from Nevada several years ago. His bride is the daughter of Mrs. B. B. Baker, a pioneer resident of Chico, and is well known in Colusa.

TRAPS AFFINITY OF WIFE IN A BARREL

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 12.—The story of how an affinity was trapped in a barrel dressed in scant attire, following an attempt to escape from the room of his wife, was told in a divorce complaint filed today by Philip T. Prince against Ada I. Prince.

Prince alleged that he placed a row of barrels at the bottom of the rear stairway of his home when he found John Huey, a fellow drummer, in the house with Ada I. Prince. He then knocked on the front door, heard a big scramble within and soon after a scream as Huey landed in the barrel, having tripped over a rope.

When the husband rushed around to the rear he found Huey had first in the barrel with most of his clothing in his hands. He had trouble in extricating Huey.

HAYWARD ACCEPTS THE ASSESSMENT ROLL

HAYWARD, Aug. 12.—The Board of Equalization of Hayward has accepted the assessment roll as prepared by City Assessor Deane and will make no changes in the valuation. Their work being completed, the members of the board have adjourned until a further call necessitates their office.

HANDICAPPED

This is the Case With Many Oakland People.

Too many Oakland citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The constant aching at night, preventing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Can you doubt Oakland evidence?

Mrs. W. H. Golder, 2215 Adeline street, Oakland, Cal., says: "I can say that Doan's Kidney Pills are the best kidney remedy on earth with no fear of contradiction. I have been a terrible sufferer from kidney trouble. Ten for days at a time not having enough strength to move. My kidneys annoyed me greatly. I had headaches and felt tired all the time. My husband spoke so highly of Doan's Kidney Pills that I decided to give them a trial and procured a box. They cured me completely and I now feel better in every way. It gives me great pleasure to make known the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills."

WILLIAM H. MACKINNON, AFTER STUDY OF FINANCIAL CONDITIONS IN EAST, PREDICTS PROSPERITY

CALIFORNIA TO GAIN BY THE
NEW TARIFF, SAY BUSINESS MEN

Opinions Expressed in New York
Show Interest in Golden State—
Local Financier Makes Suggestions

William H. Mackinnon, the well known financier of this city, returned from New York yesterday, after several weeks' trip in which he combined business and pleasure. During Mr. Mackinnon's absence in the East he was the guest of Frank C. Havens, at the latter's Eastern home, Bluff Point, Sag Harbor, Long Island. Mr. Mackinnon remained as the guest of Mr. Havens for two weeks, enjoying a number of yachting cruises as well as several house parties which were given during his visit. The Havens' home at Sag Harbor is one of the most beautiful places in that part of the country.

Mr. Mackinnon returned from his trip much refreshed and improved in health. He was accompanied by Mrs. Mackinnon. During his visit in New York, St. Louis, Chicago and other leading cities in the East, Mr. Mackinnon paid particular attention to the business conditions in these localities, and took note of the effect the new tariff will have on the country. As Mr. Mackinnon is in the business of financing, he gave particular attention to the condition of the money market in the East. When seen by a TRIBUNE reporter at his country place in Eden Township he gave the following interview:

Goes to Long Island

"I left Oakland, accompanied by Mrs. Mackinnon, nearly six weeks ago, and went direct to New York. My visit to the Eastern cities was partly for pleasure and partly for business. After transacting some business in New York I was invited by Mr. Havens to be his guest at Bluff Point, he being in the East at that time. We went from the Waldorf Astoria, where Mr. Havens met us, down to his country home in Long Island in an automobile. It was a most delightful drive.

"We went through a great many towns that had old familiar landmarks, for I was born and raised in New York and knew all the towns through which we passed. It was a very pleasant trip for me to go through these small places, after almost forty years' absence, and notice the strides they had made in civilization. Upon inquiry at several of the towns about old friends of mine, I learned to my regret that nearly all of them had passed beyond the great divide.

Prince of Hosts

"My original intention was to stop with Mr. Havens for about three days, but instead I remained two weeks, because he made it so entertaining for us and was such a delightful host. Mr. Havens is certainly a prince of hosts. There are a great many places around his country home in which a visitor can be entertained day after day. One can enjoy smooth water bathing, surf bathing, fishing, crab gathering, yachting, motor boating, automobilism, horseback riding and many other diversions. In fact, there is a program arranged daily for the entertainment of the guests.

"During my visit at Mr. Havens' place he had several house parties and entertained everybody in royal style. "Bluff Point is situated almost directly opposite F. M. Smith's summer home at Shelter Island. You can see Mr. Smith's big steam yacht anchored in the harbor five miles away. You will remember Mr. Smith's yacht. Effort won the King's cup in the great yacht race in New York two years ago. The effort, however, was not in port while I was there.

Return by Steamer

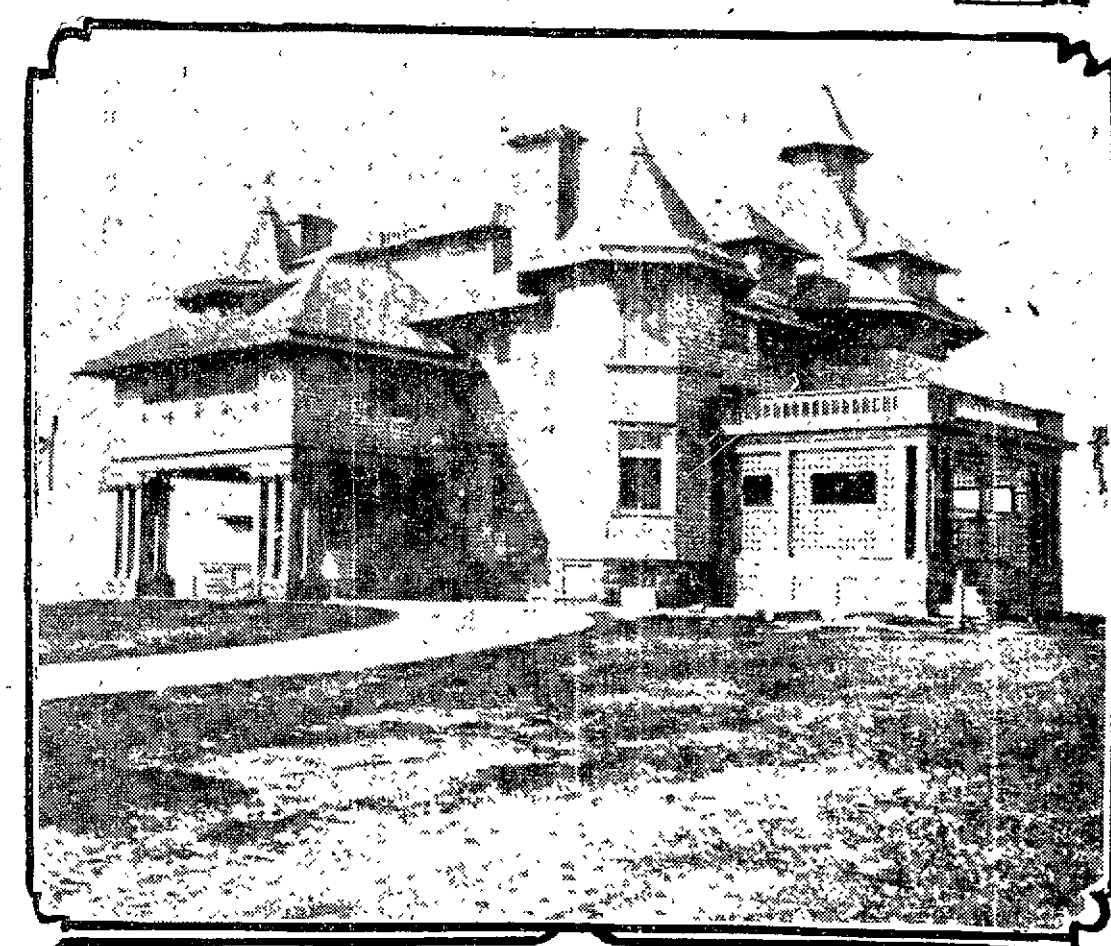

"After leaving Mr. Havens' home we again went to New York by way of the steamer. This is a most interesting and splendid trip, because on the way you go down the sound, and pass through Hell Gate, securing an excellent view of both sides of the river, and passing under the three bridges before arriving in New York City. This trip is really more interesting than to motor by land. "During my investigations in New York, and after consulting with several prominent men, I found that money is very easy in New York at the present time.

Bright Outlook

"You can buy money in America's great financial center for 3 per cent. So you will see that when money is so cheap in New York times ought to be good elsewhere, for everyone knows that New York is the financial hub of the United States. There is plenty of money in New York, and such a low figure shows that many great enterprises will be financed during the coming year all over the country that could not otherwise be touched were money hard to secure. It is my opinion that we will have a very prosperous year in 1910.

"Business in the East is picking up rapidly. Financial conditions are getting stronger every day. Business men in nearly every city are showing great enthusiasm. The tariff is now out of the way, and as a result millions of dollars will be invested in various enterprises that would not the fact that one can borrow it at have been touched while this great subject was under discussion in Congress.

California to Benefit

"I know of various cases where large sums of money were waiting in the banks to be tapped the moment the tariff became a law. I think the new tariff measure is highly approved throughout the East. In a number of offices I visited in New York it was commented upon that California secured better results in the new tariff measure than almost any other state in the Union. This, in my opinion, will have a very beneficial effect on this State.

"It is a well known fact that when the great city of New York turns the wheels of progress and looks forward to good and prosperous times it sets in motion almost every large city in the United States. It cannot be gainsaid, although we are a great State and a great people, that when it comes to finances and prosperity we look to the East for a starter.

In God's Country

"Returning to my home city, and appreciating the glorious climate I have enjoyed for so many years, I wondered to myself how it is that so many people can live in such extreme heat and such intense cold as in the East. Certainly this is God's country. We who have lived here, worked here and made our money here realize more and more that California of all places in the United States, or in the world, I may say, is really the Garden of Eden. It is unnecessary for me to go into the climatic conditions of New York. Everyone who has ever visited there, in the heat, the intense cold, able for almost everything, and it has no mushroom growth. In time Oakland will become the greatest city in the West.

Magnificent Future

"My opinion is that Oakland has a magnificent future. Of course it is at a great disadvantage regarding its railroad service. In Los Angeles people seem to handle things different from what we do. For instance, Easterners are brought into the southern city from the East in great numbers, and it is so arranged that they are nearly always compelled to remain in Los Angeles seven or eight hours before they can get out. It seems to me that this is done so that people can see what the place is like with the hope that they may make investments and remain, or come back at some future time. These tourists are brought into Los Angeles by thousands, and there is no other city anywhere that has an eight-hour stop—twenty minutes being generally the limit.

Suggests Organization

"I left New York on a limited train and I was landed in Los Angeles after a trip of four days and two hours. It was impossible for me, I might say, to get out of Los Angeles for nearly two days, for the reason that I could not secure proper accommodations to come north.

"The point I want to make is that we should have an organization here that would corral the business like they do in Los Angeles. You really don't get any stopover in Oakland. You used to get a blue ticket here that you could use from any station in Oakland, Berkeley or Alameda to San Francisco. Now they give you a ticket that you can use only from Oakland pier. As a matter of fact, this is really not a stopover privilege.

Didn't Know Berkeley

"I was in the main office of the New York Central Railroad in New York when a lady happened in and said she desired to purchase a ticket for Berkeley, California. To my great astonishment I found that the men in the office did not know if they could sell her a ticket to Berkeley. At the Southern Pacific office she also had considerable trouble in getting the ticket to Berkeley, the hub of learning in California, our great city of education that we in Alameda county think is known all over the country. Poor Berkeley. What a reputation after all their millions of dollars that have been thrown into her lap for the building of great educational institutions.

Public Rights

"Another thing I noticed, because of the fact that I either drive or motor around Alameda county a great deal,

Inheritance to Put Hubby
Back in Wall St. Business

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Through an inheritance of $1,000,000 from the late Burns estate of St. Joseph, Mo., Mrs. Sidney C. Love expects a rehabilitation of her husband in Wall Street, where he lost his fortune last January. Mrs. Love was formerly Miss Marjorie Burns, who was pronounced by Sir Philip Burns-Jones to be the most beautiful woman in the world. Mr. Love, who came to New York from Keokuk, Iowa, was the particular protégé of Judge William N. Moore, formerly of Chicago, and when Love failed in Wall Street Judge Moore saw that none of his creditors lost anything. Mrs. Love had been participating in the legacy from Missouri and declared that she would re-establish her husband in his brokerage business as soon as she obtained it. Mrs. Love has been notified that she will receive $1,000,000 from the $10,000,000 Burns estate.

CHANGE DATE COUNCIL JEWISH WOMEN MEETING

Owing to previous engagements of Miss Sadie American, executive secretary of the National Council of Jewish Women, the date for the open meeting for discussing plans for the reorganization of the council of Jewish women in Oakland has been changed from Tuesday, Aug. 17th, to Monday, Aug. 16th. The meeting promises to be well attended by club women and the public, who are cordially invited to be present.

is the indulgence of the railroad companies in the East toward the public. I do not know as I can call it indulgence—it is probably a law that compels these corporations to give the public their rights.

"You cannot go into a small town in the Eastern cities and find a thoroughfare blocked by a railroad train. Main thoroughfares, when crossed by railroads, are invariably crossed overhead or by subways. If a train has to stop for any reason on a thoroughfare, the train is cut or broken and a clear roadway allowed. How many times have I had to wait, sometimes for half an hour, for a train to pass and a clear roadway given the public in Alameda county.

"Of course, these are little things, but they all go to make up the happiness and contentment of the people, and make them feel that their rights are taken care of by the officials whose duty it is to see the laws enforced."

People with chronic bronchitis, asthma and lung trouble, will find great relief and comfort in Foley's Honey and Tar, and can avoid suffering by commencing to take it at once. Sold at Wishart's drug store, corner Tenth and Washington streets.

Block Local Streets

"In Oakland here I notice that any old things stands in the streets. For instance, any grocery firm on Broadway can blockade half a block, and the police will never see it. In driving across a main thoroughfare in New York you have to strictly obey orders from the police every time. The patrolman whistles and beckons for you to stop or go ahead, and you dare not move without his permission. I can assure you that chauffeurs obey the rules and orders of the police strictly to the letter. After two or three fines for violating the law, a chauffeur is not permitted to pay a fine, but he is given a jail sentence, and it must be served. You can see under these conditions that the motor laws in New York City are enforced to the limit, and the rights of the general public are thoroughly protected.

Praises Alameda County

"I passed through many agricultural states during my trip, but in justice to my home I want to say that during my absence I saw no country as great in the producing line as Alameda county. It is one of the greatest producing counties in the United States. Take our valley from Oakland to San Jose on the south and on the north to Pleasanton and Livermore, you can produce from the ground products in which riches are being made every year. The farmers of Alameda county are probably among the most prosperous farmers of the country. This county is suit-

Fifth Annual Convention
California
State
Realty
Federation.
August 12, 13, 14,
Oakland,
California.

There was not, so far as known, a delegate from San Francisco because no realty man of that city is affiliated with the organization, although it was rumored that at this session there was to be an application for admission from across the bay.

A couple of years ago the San Francisco realty men withdrew from the organization and have remained out since, a fact to which President Carmichael sharply and censoriously referred to in his response to the address of welcome by Mayor Mott.

Los Angeles Delegates

The delegation from Los Angeles was the first to arrive, coming as they did on the Owl, which reached here several hours before the opening of the convention. Each of the southern men wore an orange button about the size of a silver dollar which bore the following inscription:

WE LOVE
LOS ANGELES.
BUT
OH! YOU
OAKLAND.

With characteristic liberality the Los Angeles bestowed buttons of this style upon all the delegates and, as a consequence, on the breast of each of the persons present, there was quite a contrast between the gold of the south, the purple tone of the federation badge and the diversified tints of the badges of the members from other sections.

Called to Order

At 10:15 o'clock the convention was called to order by President Carmichael, simply to announce that the delegates from the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys would not arrive until 10:30 o'clock, when the train from that section was due.

On motion of Herbert Burdett of Los Angeles, C. A. Brockwood was elected acting secretary of the convention.

On motion of Hubert Bryant of Oakland the convention took a recess until 11:15 a. m.

It was 11:20 o'clock when tardy delegates arrived at the hall and instantly the place became filled with life and energy.

Given Big Ovation

The new comers were met at the depot by a delegation of the local dealers with a long string of automobiles, to which the delegates were escorted. In the leading auto was Callahan's band, which played winning quicksteps, setting the rate, so to speak, for the rolling column.

Throughout the trip from the depot to the hall, great enthusiasm prevailed among the visitors, and this feeling was intensified when, at various street intersections, clusters of citizens lustily gave a welcome of cheers to the incoming realty men.

At the entrance to the hall, the visitors were given an ovation by the Oakland realty men and merchants, the enthusiasm of which was increased by the rendition of inspiring airs by the band.

The badges of the delegates from the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys were demonstrative badges, especially those from Sacramento, each of whom at the same time carried a crimson pennon on which was the word Sacramento.

Hearty Applause

When President Carmichael referred to the liberality with which all other sections of this state had responded to San Francisco's call when that city was in need, there was hearty applause and that there should be reciprocity on the part of San Francisco, in the matter of assisting other cities, there were cries of "Good, Good" and loud applause, but the auditors rose to enthusiasm when the speaker, commenting upon the fact that

San Francisco had contemptuously referred to Oakland as a red chamber, declared that it was a very lively thing, that in the fire and quake of three years ago, San Francisco had taken her place as a convenient and hospitable a bed chamber of Oakland.

The chair then announced that he was glad through the courtesy of THE TRIBUNE to read a dispatch from the south on the consolidation of Los Angeles, San Diego and Wilmington, which would be pleasing to the delegates from that section. The announcement was applauded.

On motion of R. L. Bates of Sacramento, the president was authorized to appoint a committee to report on credentials during the next hour.

The chair announced that the Tri-City Rotary Club invited the guests to a lunch at the Forum.

Recess till 2 p. m.

Carmichael Speaks

The convention was called to order by D. W. Carmichael, the president of the California State Realty Federation, who was elected at the last convention, which was held in Sacramento one year ago. Carmichael spoke deliberately about the pleasure it afforded him in meeting so many delegates interested in the matter of advancing the interests of the realty men through the State. He concluded as follows:

"Another year has been added to the life of the California State Realty Federation and, in opening this, the fifth annual convention, it affords me great pleasure to note the increased interest manifested by a larger attendance than has ever been known in our history. However, that may be due to the happy selection of the place of meeting. As delegates from Sacramento there is not another city in the state I would rather have had selected than Oakland."

This sentiment was greeted with cheers. Mayor Frank K. Mott was then introduced and delivered a heartfelt welcome to the delegates.

The Mayor said, among other things: "As Mayor of Oakland I have been called to the pleasant duty of welcoming the real estate men of this city and of the state here, of so many leading members of their calling throughout the state."

"The Mayor said, among other things: 'As Mayor of Oakland I have been called to the pleasant duty of welcoming the real estate men of this city and of the state here, of so many leading members of their calling throughout the state.'

"We open wide the gates for you and we hope to be able to entertain you in a just, hearty manner."

In California stand as high in citizenship, honesty, intelligence and ability as any that may be found in any profession.

"At places calling with that of banking and in a certain manner, you act as bankers. You have to keep your confidence. You are home-builders. You are state-builders and I know of no calling which is a more noble one."

"California, today, is being born again. Great projects are being devised and carried on up and down throughout the state."

"I wish to say only a word about my own city. I know the men from the furthest parts of this state, are as interested in this part as they are in their own sections of the state."

"We want you to look us over with a practical and a critical eye, because Oakland is on the high road to prosperity and she is to become not only one of the great cities of California, but also of the country."

Interest in Progress

"I take pleasure in the advancement and progress of other sections and, while we are working for the upbuilding of this city, not alone for the building up of Oakland, but also because of the effect it will have in the building up of the state of California."

"We have provided some features of entertainment for you because we have not wanted for work only."

"We hope you will enjoy yourselves and that when you leave here you will take away with you pleasant memories of your visit as we certainly will retain the same memories of your coming."

President Replies

In response to the heartfelt words of the Mayor were the following remarks by President D. W. Carmichael of Sacramento, who, after expressing appreciation of the kindly sentiments of the Mayor, said:

"Now, gentlemen, in submitting my report I am properly omitted the accomplishments of the federation for the worthy secretary, who knows and can tell you more about that than any one else, having steadily been on the firing line of our organization since its incep-

I shall occupy only a few brief moments with some thoughts which, in my judgment, as members, should keep before us constantly.

"The year just passed, however, has been a fruitful one for the federation. While there has been the usual strife always to be found in every family, the net results are very gratifying."

"The usefulness of the organization has been demonstrated beyond doubt. While the strength is not what it should be, concerted actions have brought results that many recognize and value accordingly."

"The spirit that pervades the California State Realty Federation as an organization is one of progress, an impulse that moves every member to exert every effort toward the upbuilding of this, the greatest state in the Union. It is a concern of the members to take from the charlatan, the crook and the 'curbstoner' the unlimited privilege of selling 'gold bricks' in the shape of valueless land to the unwary stranger and it is the principle of honesty, square dealing and civic pride that is increasing the membership and making strong, slowly but just as surely, the position in our state of the California State Realty Federation."

"This board has a great work ahead of it. While composed of men engaged in private business and for their own profit, it numbers among its members, and, in fact, its whole membership is composed of, men who are broad-minded enough to recognize the fact that the progress and development of the state as a whole is a matter of personal interest and advantage to the man that their prosperity and aggrandizement are inseparable, united and interwoven with that of every portion of the state."

"There is not and can not properly be any rank of demarcation or of local interest in this organization. If there are, or could be, there is no reason for its existence. Our motto should be like that of the Musketeers, 'made immortal by the graphic pen of Dumas: 'All for one, and one for all.' As John Adams said, 'We must all hang together, or we will hang separately.' United in purpose and action, our organization has within it unlimited possibilities for the development of the whole state and adding, may, forcing it into its proper place in the front ranks of the members of our great republic."

"Our task is not only to forward the work of making known the advantages of our commonwealth to the dwellers of the east, but a no less important function is to inspire them with confidence in our integrity, truthfulness and fair dealing with them when they may come to us for investment or information."

"The swindling promoter of wild-cat speculation or fraudulent colonization schemes not only has nothing in common with us, but is our natural enemy. We must bend our energies, not only to expose his methods and nullify his efforts, but also to drive him utterly out of the community and out of business and establish the fact in the minds of immigrants looking for homes that they may come and place confidence in the information and in what we give them and in our dealings toward them."

Immense Advantage

"Even we, who consider ourselves familiar with the conditions in California, are only partly conscious of the great gift that our Creator has bestowed upon our state. There is nothing so problematical about our future, our geographical and climatic conditions set us apart from the rest of the world."

"What many of us have not realized is that the cold winters of the Atlantic coast in this latitude are eliminated. Our state is so immensely wealthy that it is hard to gain a concrete idea of its intrinsic value. It stands today sixth in wealth in the Union, although comparatively a new state."

"What our twenty years of the development that is now at hand will do for us would make the wonders of the 'Arabian Nights' pale into insignificance. Today the average per capita wealth of California is $235, with a per capita debt of only $37. New York, the proud Empire State, dating from the ante-colonial days, is next with a per capita wealth of only $188 and a per capita debt of $74. In these respects California leads the world. Do not these figures spell present prosperity?"

"What is in store for us for the future and on what basis can we estimate it? With our great state, 700 miles long by nearly 400 miles wide, embracing a latitude equal to that of the Atlantic states from New York to Georgia, what limit shall we place on our progress and development?"

"It is not a wild dream to predict that the day will come in the near future when all our resources will have been explored, that the world will learn that the State of California is capable of supplying the demand of many thousands of fertile acres that are yet almost unheard of. We shall see millions of people who will come to us and share in the advantages we can offer them. We are a cosmopolitan community. To every dweller of the earth, be it an Anglo-Saxon, Latin, Slav, Teuton or of other race, we can offer homes and congenial associations with those of his own people. California stands in the front rank with her schools, churches and social organizations and holds out her hands in welcome to all nations."

"These facts alone, gentlemen, and facts they are, go to prove the necessity of our working together and in harmony. We need united efforts and no cool, selfish, indifferent feelings should be allowed to influence us. We are, gentlemen, the promoters of this great state that should be proud to admit that we represent the promotion interest of such a great and grand state as California. We are, however, and should be many enough to admit the fact that we are all dependent on each other and no man or organization can safely attempt to stand alone."

"In this respect, while it grieves me sorely, I can not pass without mentioning the feeling of my own heart regarding our brothers representing the realty interests of the great metropolis of this state who have seen it to stand aloof from our organization, which, if I know its intentions, as before stated, carry out the general upbuilding of this great state."

"While, my friends, San Francisco can boast of her magnificent harbor, her unequalled location, and undreamed of ability for handling great trade, still, my friends, she is dependent on the other sections of this state for a large degree of her progress and, in her need, her extremity, they have always come to her rescue. Her commercial supremacy has more than once been endangered but, in every such instance, it has been the balance of California that has held out a willing, helping hand and has turned around her that cloak of protection which we rightfully and justly should have for which we do not for one moment desire to boast of, but gentlemen, there should be reciprocity."

"I can laugh when the joke is on the lawyer, but it isn't so funny when we hear of people being seriously warned before coming to California. 'Whatever you do, don't go near any of those California real estate men. They'll cut you out of your eye teeth.' Such remarks are not uncommon, coming from ill-advised investors who have had an 'experience.'"

"If the California State Realty Federation stands for anything, it should stand for the prevention of such practices as bring forth remarks such as the one I have just heard. For illustration, Great California real estate men, in the first place, that no dealers guilty of such practices be admitted to membership in our organization, and Federation members, in the next place, should do all in their power as individuals to stamp out and prevent such dealings."

Honest and reliable real estate men, from a selfish standpoint, it from no other should all in their power to prevent fraud and misrepresentation in real estate dealings. It gives a bad name to the state and to the real estate business in general, and it diverts into unworthy hands the last of the money wisely be put into legitimate and profitable investments."

Report such practices to the president or secretary of the Federation or to some member of the Colonization Committee, and then co-operate with them in securing evidence and taking such steps as seem best to be taken."

One of the most important duties of the Colonization Committee is to prevent or to expose misrepresentation, fraud and wildcat schemes in the real estate business. Inasmuch as an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, it has been my policy, as a member of the Colonization Committee, to investigate as much as possible, propositions while they were still in their infancy and prevent fraud and misrepresentation before it comes in later, after investors have lost their hard-earned cash, when the committee's work is simply to do what it can to expose or to punish the offender."

"During the last year, the important developments have been made in the Pacific Coast in two particular lines of real estate, offering great opportunities, I repeat, to Mexican lands and to commercial Encinitas plantations."

The great interest developed in these two lines has given opportunity for unscrupulous promoters and wildcat schemes to prey upon the public. The biggest opportunities are for legitimate dealing, the bigger they are for unscrupulous dealing, and sharpers are quick to recognize this."

Among the Mexican wild-cat companies was one offering glittering promises, which attracted many innocent victims. It was a scheme whereby a Colonization Company was offering Mexican lands 'free' to purchasers of the water and improvement shares of $5 each, in blocks of 200 shares. Brown of San Quentin

After a brief sojourn in San Quentin J. Dalzell Brown, wrecker of the California Safe Deposit Bank and Trust Company, is again at large. His sentence was for eighteen months, but the provisions of the Goodwin Act limited the time of actual duration to fifteen months. The favor of the San Francisco District Attorney's office allowed him to spend a large portion of this time in comparative freedom in the city. Brown therefore spent only a few months in State Prison. The clemency shown Brown came from the same influence that gave a blanket grant of immunity to the boodle Supervisors of San Francisco.

The way in which justice was tempered for Mr. Brown is small discouragement to bank wrecking. By the criminal operations of this man some 12,500 depositors were plundered and a long established financial institution wrecked. Several other banks were dragged down in the ruin Brown brought on the California Safe Deposit Company, one of them being the Union National of Oakland. Brown's felonious operations covered a period of years and embraced a variety of crimes. His sentence was a travesty of justice and his confinement largely a farce. Short as it was, it was made as pleasant as possible.

Brown at liberty can watch with amusement the efforts of the people he plundered to rehabilitate the bank he wrecked. Their strivings to recover a portion of the savings they entrusted to him will no doubt be diverting to his sense of humor. He is a fine example of the exploitation of the machinery of justice to serve private ends.

Comparisons in Paving Policies

Superintendent of Streets Walter C. Howe's visit to the cities of the northwest and the result of his observations as presented in the intelligent and comprehensive report which he submitted to the Board of Public Works at its regular weekly meeting yesterday ought to be productive of good here and lead to a revision of the policy regarding street improvement which has been up-to-date in vogue. It is evident from the figures he presents that Oakland is far behind all of these northwestern cities in the matter of permanent pavements and in the methods adopted regarding the construction of the sub-surface public and private services which are all required to be laid coincident with the laying of the pavement. Through the adoption of the latter policy a permanent pavement once laid remains undisturbed. In our experience it has been a common practice to rip up a new pavement and dig trenches to provide the service connections and a permanent disfigurement of the pavement invariably follows the restoration of the surface work. Seattle with 88.42 miles of permanent street pavements and Portland, Oregon, with 44.72 miles, puts Oakland to the blush with only 16.25 miles to its credit. The redeeming feature in our case is that a policy of permanent pavement expansion is in course of development.

The mileage of permanent street pavements in Tacoma is not given in Mr. Howe's report; but he represents that the policy of street improvement there is similar in many respects to that of Seattle. There is one sentence in the report relating to that city which should sink deep into the mind of every citizen interested in the subject of street improvement, namely, that "the lower districts of the city contiguous to freight yards and railroads are well paved and present a very pleasing appearance to the eye." And so also should the statement which he makes in the summing up of his report, namely, that "Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and every other city of importance on the coast have paid particular attention to the heavy traffic sections and, in consequence, only high grade pavements are to be found in their warehouse and mercantile districts." In Oakland the very opposite policy has so far been followed—the district lying between Seventh street and the water front, in which are "located warehouses, factories, lumber yards and mercantile concerns representing large industrial interests, all of which operate heavy traffic," have been wholly neglected in the past and the pavements wrecked under the tremendous burden they were never fitted to carry, while the entire attention and energies and funds at the disposal of the municipal administration have been diverted to the development of streets which carry comparatively light traffic. That policy will have to be changed if Oakland means to progress commercially and industrially, and the change cannot be made too quickly for the good of all concerned. The present policy is ruinous to our best interests, and this fact Mr. Howe brings out very forcibly in his report.

Gun License-Sane and Otherwise

The State of Texas has just put into effect a new hunter's license law which has the merit of being much more rational than the one previously in force or that which is in force in California and some other States. A resident of Texas may now hunt in his own county and adjoining counties without paying the license tax of $1.75 per annum previously imposed. Whether a resident of the State or not, he may also kill game on his own land or on land controlled by him in whatever part of the State it is located without paying the tax. Our fool game laws make it imperative for any man who carries a gun and shoots wild game on his own land to pay a tax of $1 per annum and the game wardens do not hesitate to trespass on the property of the violator in order to arrest him and hale him before a justice of the peace to suffer the penalty of his offense. And a non-resident of the State owning land within it may not hunt on it without paying the higher license tax which the law imposes on the non-resident class. It is the same way in Oregon. Harriman, for example, who owns a magnificent estate on the western shores of Great Klamath Lake and which is well-stocked with big game cannot indulge in the luxury of hunting on his own ground without paying the annual tax of $10 levied on non-residents.

In New York City Magistrate Butts, in refusing to dismiss a case which the prosecuting witness declined to prosecute, said "no District Attorney or Judge has the right to compound a felony in this county." But in New York the machinery of the law has not been handed over to private persons to be used as they see fit. Hence in that city the laws prohibiting bribery and the subornation of perjury have not been abrogated, nor demands for fair trials treated as insolent defiance of public decency.

The Sacramento Bee alleges THE TRIBUNE said the late John H. Mitchell of Oregon was a better man than Francis J. Heney. THE TRIBUNE made no such statement, though it did draw a comparison between Mitchell and Heney as regards their methods of getting money while holding public office. However, since the Bee has kindly volunteered the statement that Mitchell was a better man than Heney, we are willing to stand for it. And we never had much use for Mitchell at that.

Oakland as a Convention City.

One thing is sure to be demonstrated by the Oakland real estate dealers to the complete satisfaction of the delegates to the State Realty Federation Convention, which opened auspiciously its three days' sessions today, and to their friends who are visiting here with them, namely, that Oakland is an ideal convention city. Everything that suggested itself to the committees in charge of the preparations for the convention that would tend toward the accomplishment of this end has been kept constantly in mind in making their arrangements. The members of the federation and their accompanying friends cannot fail to be favorably impressed with the justice of Oakland's claim to be one of the best, if not the best, convention city on the Pacific Coast, with an ideal climate, picturesque location, attractive surroundings, splendid roads and boulevards, ample accommodations for all purposes associated with the successful holding of a convention and a beautiful banquet hall of larger seating capacity than any other in existence on the Pacific Coast.

Hitherto Oakland has been over modest in pressing its claims as a convention city. The action of the local real estate dealers in impressing on the minds of the delegates to the State Federation gathering the fact that it is pre-eminently a convention city and must hereafter be counted as one of the best cities for that purpose is timely and highly commendable as a splendid piece of promotion work. It is safe to say that every delegate to the Federation's convention will return to his home, wherever it may be, with the pleasantest recollection of his present visit here and the strongest kind of a desire to return again at an early date. The local committees, the commercial bodies and the municipal administration are giving the visitors the freedom of the city and a class of entertainment that will add to Oakland's reputation for liberal hospitality.

Wall Street Boosting Stocks

Somebody has started the story in New York that the steady rise in values of American securities and the firmness of the stock market, notwithstanding the strenuous activity of the bears, are due to the transfer of British capital across the Atlantic to dodge the payment of the increased income tax levied, and that Wall Street banks are now carrying from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 worth of stock "purchased and paid for by foreign investors." This is supplemented by a statement credited to "a high authority familiar with these huge operations for foreign account," as follows: "I understand that the National City bank alone has purchased and is carrying in its vaults between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 of stocks and bonds for foreign investors."

These florid statements are being spread broadcast over the land for the manifest purpose of still further "bulling" the New York stock market and taking in the unthinking and unwary. It is a process familiar to every one acquainted with "the ways that are dark and the tricks that are vain" of the Wall Street gamblers.

While at all times a vast amount of foreign capital, more particularly British money, is invested in American securities and in American realty, it is absurd to assume that from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 has been recently sent from Great Britain to New York for investment in stocks or bonds to evade the income tax which through the aid of the budget the British government is increasing, because the greater earnings of such investments on this side the water would swell the revenues raised through the income tax in corresponding proportion to their increased earnings, for the latter would all drift back to Great Britain with the collection of dividends and the cashing of coupons and could not possibly escape the tax collector. But the withdrawal of so large a sum of British gold in the course of a few weeks or months for investment in speculative American stocks and bonds could not possibly occur without affecting the Bank of England rate of discount and that is today quoted at 2 1/2 per cent, and shows that there has not been any gold movement abroad large enough to cause the slightest ripple on the placid surface of the financial pool during at least the past four and one-half months.

The attack on Secretary Ballinger in the Irrigation Congress appears to have been concerted in advance, and has all the earmarks of a covert assault on the administration of President Taft.

A little railroad seven miles long in Louisiana has been named the Roosevelt and Western in honor of the ex-President. It is one of the branches of the Memphis, Helena and Louisiana Railroad. It is to be hoped that it will be less strenuous in its operation than its namesake in the interest of the safety of the traveling public.

Either the management of the Yosemite valley by the Federal Government is growing careless or the lives of visitors are not being properly safeguarded, for the great chasm is making a record this year in the matter of tragedies which has never before been equaled in its past history when under State control, and these fatalities seem also to have occurred at or near the same spot and under almost precisely the same conditions. It is quite apparent that a better system of policing the valley and stricter regulations governing the movements of visitors are essential to prevent a repetition of these tragic occurrences, otherwise this great natural attraction will grow into disrepute.

Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh has suspended the coinage of the new Lincoln pennies pending the making of new dies, as the initials of the designer, V. D. Brenner of New York, are too conspicuous on the coins already minted. For the initials "V. D. B." the new dies will have the single letter "B." and that in an inconspicuous place on the face of the coin. In this way it will conform with the initial of Morgan, the English designer of the head of Liberty on the silver dollar coin, which figures almost microscopically on the base of the throat. When the silver dollar was first issued some popular resentment arose against it through the detection of a crouching lion in the folds of Liberty's hair and the assertion that he had used his wife's silhouette as a model for Liberty's head. The department paid no attention, however, to either objection and the opposition to the design soon died out, as neither the crouching lion nor the designer's initial are in any sense offensively conspicuous. But the designer of the new cent piece seems to have overstepped the mark of prudence by making his initials on the design as conspicuous as any other feature on the face of the coin.

The value of light as a transformer of property conditions is illustrated in a marked degree in the electric illumination of Franklin street from Seventh to Fourteenth street. The improvement has revolutionized the status of the street from every point of view and every cent invested in the development of the electric lighting has added many dollars to the value of the property fronting on the thoroughfare.

Famous Harvard Elms Doomed by Bugs

Frequent reports that the elms in the Harvard yard could not much longer stand up under the ravages of various insects are confirmed by the authorities, who say that the trees now recovering from the defoliation by the elm leaf beetle are suffering even more through the boring of the leopard moth. The elm leaf post is not so active in the college yard, nor in Cambridge, this year; but the trees, already weakened, are having a hard fight for life, and it is thought that the elms in the yard will die in five years. The other trees in the yard are attacked by the leopard moth. So grave is the situation that a number of men have been at work for weeks to minimize the ravages of the leopard borer, but with little success.

George Howland Cox, chairman of the park commission, says that there are 1400 trees of different varieties in Cambridge either dead or dying, and he asks the Board of Aldermen to appropriate $2000 to remove those that are dead.

"It would not seem to be an unfair request if we asked for some money to preserve the trees which are still thriving," says Mr. Cox. "But I feel that it certainly would not be forthcoming, therefore, if we can get enough to cut away the dead trees, the removal of which is demanded by public safety and proper civic pride, we shall feel that we have accomplished all that we can hope to do at present. It is apparent in our city how macadamized roads, brick sidewalks, electric wires and gas mains, to say nothing of the ravages of insects, affect the trees. From all appearances, Harvard is likely to lose her elms within a few years."—New York Press.

LYING Is Caused by a Nervous Disease

LONDON.—Is the world coming to be peopled with neurotics? Is neuroasthenia, that nervous disease which has come into so much prominence of late, "sapping the foundations of social life?"

That it seems to be the opinion of Dr. Diomedes Caritto, of Naples, an eminent authority on the disease, whose views are discussed in the current number of the British Medical Journal.

Doctors, he says, have daily opportunities of observing the steady spread of the disease. "They see students with pale faces, victims of intellectual overwork, who complain of slowness and enervation, loss of power of concentration; they are haunted by the fear of examinations, which loom before them like specters."

"By their side are seen other examples of a different class, the chief symptom being a weakness of mind, with an accompanying instability or want of principle, arising out of lack of purpose in life."

And the disease manifests itself in numerous other forms. Some of the sufferers are shy to the extent of becoming paralyzed before the simplest demands of social life—they grumble at everything.

"Others are illars and full of spite against their fellows. Others still are violent, passionate, impulsive, with little or no power of self-restraint. One symptom is common to all, inadequate power of resistance and total lack of intellectual discipline."

In professional life, the disease, it is said, manifests itself in the desire to succeed by short and often questionable cuts, in "alternating paroxysms of exaltation and depression." Its sufferers are "oversensitive to criticism."

So deeply impressed with the dangers of the disease is Dr. Caritto that he suggests an international conference should be organized to deal with it.

After this dismal view, it is little comforting to find that the Journal itself does not take the prevalence of neuroasthenia in modern life so seriously. Often, it says, neuroasthenia is a high-sounding name for "that tired feeling." Nor does it agree with Dr. Caritto that the schoolmaster should be invoked to combat it. Far from it, for "we venture to think that it is the prevalence of the schoolmaster and of his satellite, the examiner, which is to a large extent responsible for the prevalence of neuroasthenia."

It is in "the strain of an unsuitable education enforced on children incapable of bearing it" and in modern competition that the Journal finds the causes.

"We mistake a barren knowledge of facts for education, and 'competition is everywhere' the test of merit. What chance would Nelson, Wellington or Napoleon have at the present day of such is its indictment of the faults of our modern education."

What are the remedies? Education, answers the Journal—education adapted to the needs of the life that lies before the child; not education cast in one rigid mould. "The mind should be trained, not crammed," and examinations should be tests of knowledge, not "traps for an uncertain memory."—Philadelphia North American.

Bachelor's Musings

A girl is so clever at making love that it seems even to her the man is doing it.

The part of a man's life that is not spent in doing foolish things is spent in recovering from them.

The woman who laments that she has to darn her husband's stockings seems to forget that he has to wear them.

The difference between a woman's temper and a man's is merely that she can turn her loose without swearing.

A young woman can't help thinking she will never grow old because, long before the time comes for that, there will be a change in the laws of nature.

Topics Timely and Interesting

Benjamin W. Douglass, State Entomologist, fears that the old "Constitutional Elm," at Corydon, Indiana, is doomed to destruction, unless something is done to save it from the ravages of the imported elm leaf beetle.

No one knows how old the tree is, but it was about as large as it is now when the first constitution of Indiana was signed under its branches, while Corydon was the capital of the State. But the beetle has made its appearance on the tree and is carrying on its destructive work.

According to William Dutcher, president of the Audubon Societies of the United States, birds save to the farmer $200,000,000 a year in the destruction of noxious insects and noxious weeds. The great destroyers of birds are the plume hunters for millinery purposes. Birds destroyed for food are restocked by natural process, but the plume hunters recognize no closed season.

Millinery interests in America represent $85,000,000 worth of work done by the birds for the farmers. As bobwhite is the arch destroyer of the potato bug and the cuckoo of the caterpillar and the woodpecker of the boring grub and the lack of the grasshopper and the sparrow of the weed seeds, President Dutcher thinks the birds are entitled to at least fair play from the milliners.

A seven foot alligator has been deporting himself in the canal near Pine street bridge in Port Pierce, Ga. He has afforded much amusement for the school children, for the "gator" has evidently a musical ear. He only appears when singing is going on in the school. When this fact became known a number of the children went to the bridge, and to the strains of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," sung by them, he lazily came from his hiding place and enjoyed the impromptu concert. The experiment has been repeated several times with success.

Soldiers Vaccinated Immune to Typhoid

The three Fort Omaha soldiers, Sergeant Fuller and Privates Godman and Schmidt, who subjected themselves to typhoid tests, have been pronounced immune by the medical department of the garrison. On June 17 these men were vaccinated with typhoid serum. Inside of seven days they developed the fever in a very mild form. When fully recovered they were again vaccinated, but no typhoid symptoms appeared.

Ten days ago the last and the most severe test was applied, and since then physicians of the post, the headquarters staff, and the city have been anxiously awaiting developments.

The last was the drinking test. Ordinary water was left for three days in an open dish. Then in a gallon more than a million typhoid germs were placed. This mixture was allowed to stand four hours longer, after which the three soldiers drank of it freely. One who was not immune would have been stricken by the fever from three to five days ago, say the physicians who have been watching the tests. Now that this time has passed and no symptoms have shown signs of developing, the medical men feel satisfied that the subjects would be unable to contract the disease.—New York World.

Prof. Zueblin Says Cadets Are Snobs

From West Point and Annapolis the United States gets a goodly number of snobs each year, says Professor Zueblin, the former University of Chicago man, who spoke to the Chautauque assembly Thursday on American culture. Professor Zueblin believes that the money spent in turning out two warriors, who consider themselves better than their fellows, could be much better spent in educating them technically for some useful occupation. Incidentally the snobs of New York and other cities indicate that the business men in the cities don't know how to run their business well, he says.

"We are turning out of West Point and Annapolis a generation of snobs," said Dr. Zueblin, emphatically. "These young soldiers are brought up to think themselves better than their fellows. Simply because they wear the garb of the soldier or sailor they consider themselves on a different plane from their fellow Americans."

"Smoke nuisance is a disgrace to a city. Instead of symbolizing prosperity it marks that city as a city where careless and wasteful management are countenanced. Wherever you see smoke over a city you may know that the city is the home of inferior business men. Modern methods make it absolutely unnecessary for any smoke to be found in the air, besides being cheaper in the long run for the individual business man himself."—New York Times.

The giant tuna of the Pacific, which disappeared suddenly from California Island waters, may be returning. At any rate old anglers claim to have seen tuna within the past fortnight, and if they have in fact returned our California correspondent will apprise our readers in due time. It has been several years since the big tuna deserted the favorite fishing waters off the southern California coast, and tourists as well as resident anglers have had to content themselves with black sea bass and smaller fry. Lighter tackle has replaced the tuna gear, but this may be laid aside for a time if the exciting pursuit of the tuna, which has attracted men from great distances, becomes possible again.

"In my boyhood days it was my fortune—or misfortune, as the case may be—to meet often and to know well the American bard, Walt Whitman," writes William Winter. "It is scarcely necessary to say that he did not improve me as anything other than what he was, a commonplace, uncouth and sometimes obnoxiously coarse writer, trying to be original by using a formless style and celebrating the proletarians who make the world almost uninhabitable by their vulgarity. With reference to his views were expressed in a sentence that, doubtless, he intended as the perfect one of contemptuous indifference, 'Willie, he said, 'is a young Longfellow.'"

Contrary to the widespread but erroneous opinion the camel is a very delicate animal. A camel that has worked fifteen days in succession needs a month's pasturing to recuperate. It is liable to a host of ailments and accidents. When a caravan crosses a sebkha, or dry salt lake, it is rare that some of the animals do not break a leg. If the fracture is in the upper part of the limb there is nothing for it but to slaughter the animal and retail its flesh as butcher's meat.

If the lower part of the limb has been injured the bone is set and held in position by means of splints made of palm branches which are bound with small cords. If no complications ensue at the end of a month the fracture is reduced. When it is a case of simple dislocation the injured part is encased with a red hot iron, then coated with clay and bandaged with a strip of cloth. Fifteen days afterward the animal is perfectly cured.

Average Students Are Ignorant of the Bible

"It is a disgrace to American scholarship that in all the colleges throughout the land there is such a prevailing ignorance of the Bible," said President Cyrus Northrop of the University of Minnesota, in his farewell address to the students of the summer school in the chapel recently.

"As things are today if you ask the average freshman or even senior of a college, especially in the East, who Moses was, he is likely to put him among the twelve apostles. There is a feeling among a certain class of persons that it is distinguished not to know anything about the Bible."

President Northrop said that the average modern fiction was not worth the paper it was written on, and that it behooved the students to establish a fashion for reading worthy books.

"At present every one likes stories I like them, especially short stories. I want the right man to get the right girl and the right girl to get the right man. I like to have everything turn out all right, the right people get married and live happily ever after. What is the use of filling the air with misery with stories where some unknown man marries the wrong woman and everything is out of tune? We have enough misery in the world without seeking for it in involved tales that are not good literature."

President Northrop called morbid stories with involved plots "perpetual emotional debaucheries."—New York Press.

Don't tell that your grandfather cradled three acres of wheat on the hottest day of 1842 and never sweat a hair.

Don't hump yourself for a glass of cold beer every hour and leave your wife and children to drink tepid water.

Don't wait at your gate to get off a joke on the ice man. He is leaving you short by five pounds every day, and the joke is really on you.

Don't swear at the Ice Trust. It only makes its ice melt the sooner.

Don't tell how you got sunstruck at the battle of Gettysburg. It might be hard for you to name the regiment you were in.

Don't fan yourself! A fan brings a breeze, but the exertion offsets it.

Don't talk about the snowbanks of last winter or some one will remember that you were too lazy to shovel the beautiful off your sidewalk.

Don't ask anybody if it is—? It is, unless he's a hog, and the query was played out years ago. Just conduct yourself like a decent, Christian gentleman and wait for a change in the weather.

A correspondent gives an entertaining account of the vanishing of a cat to get a young dogfight blackbird. The cat had observed the young bird and immediately gave chase, rushing up the trunk of the nest tree.

Meanwhile the parent bird had come upon the scene, and seeing the situation of their nestling attacked the cat with the utmost bravery, chattering as black birds can when occasion demands, and for two hours the bird kept up the attack without ceasing, forcing the enemy to keep on the defensive only. At last the bird was completely exhausted and sat "all of a heap," looking as if they had lost their feathers, like the jackdaw of Rheims after the curse.

A friendly hand at last disclosed the cat. In the afternoon the happy prize seemed quite to have recovered themselves and were singing a song of victory.

When the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia visited this country with his imposing suite one of the places to which the Russians went was out West for a buffalo hunt. The hunt was held in South Dakota, and Colonel Halsey of the army was assigned to take the party in charge and do the honors. Russians, except the Cosacks, are none too good when it comes to horsemanship, and this information was conveyed to Colonel Halsey with the request that some mild and gentle steeds be procured for the visitors for the hunt. Hatch did the best he could with the army mounts, and the cavalcade started from Fort Robinson. The leads rode slowly. It was a long and imposing procession. Just as Halsey was congratulating himself that everything was going nicely his orderly rode up from the rear, saluted, and said: "Be pardon, Colonel; but one of them kings has fell off."

On the Subject of The Nude

The nude is a relative term and really implies the existence of clothes. Without clothes there would be no nude. For example, no one would speak of a nude cow, a nude hippopotamus or a nude giraffe, and yet these creatures invariably go about not even arrayed in the conventional smudge that is supposed to be a badge of innocence.

Nudity really implies that one has a wardrobe somewhere. A lady sitting in a box at the opera conveys the unmistakable impression that she doesn't really have to wear so little. Laying back in some bureau drawer is doubtless a warm, comfortable suit of woolen underwear that she could slip on in case she had to do it.

The art of going nude is, of course, like any other art—it depends upon the judgment used in doing it. No self-respecting lady moving in the highest circles would come down to breakfast in a French bathing suit. Time and place count for much in nudity. To be nude in the morning, noon and night without regard to one's religion or standing is fatal to the most exalted position. No one would gain much by walking up and down Broadway nude. But upon arriving in a ballroom it is quite the proper thing to throw off one's clothes, leaving them with the boy at the door.

The line between modesty and nudity has never been defined correctly. The best morality, of course, wears no clothes at all. Doubtful morality is usually half naked. This comes from living in a chilly zone. If it were too hot to wear clothes studies in the nude would be so common that they would no longer be high art.—Life.

Unabridged Dramatization of Elinor Glyn's Famous Novel, 'Three Weeks,' to Occupy Boards at Macdonough

SCENE FROM "THREE WEEKS, THE DEATH OF THE 'QUEEN,' TO BE PLAYED AT THE MACDONOUGH.

The thousands who have recollections of Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks" will have an opportunity to see the dramatization of the celebrated novel, done by the author herself, at the Macdonough Theater Sunday, August 22. Manager Charles Hall has gone to large expense in bringing from San Francisco the American theater players for this engagement. By an arrangement with Manager Abe S. Cohn of the American Theater in San Francisco the interesting footlight story of the world's famous book, will be presented at the Macdonough Theater on the same date and with the same company of clever players that are packing the theater across the bay nightly this week.

The presentation of "Three Weeks" here is looked upon as an interesting dramatic event. When the nature of the theme is considered, it must be admitted that the story has been well dramatized. Although it differs somewhat from the book, inasmuch as there is a prologue which shows the Queen of Sardinia at home and introduces her drunken and vicious husband, thereby furnishing a motivation for her subsequent actions.

In Elinor Glyn's dramatization of "Three Weeks" one is promised all the astorisms of the novel filled in and none of the tiger skins left out, though the stage treatment of the story is inflexible to the most fastidious taste. It has always been Mrs. Glyn's contention that her book has been misconstrued, but in the play she claims to have said the last word on the delicate topic she undertook to discuss.

It is argued that to a coarse and vulgar person who sees no truth or beauty in art and nature, both the story and the play would fall in its purpose. Those who have looked for truth and beauty have pronounced for it with unswerving enthusiasm.

The play follows as closely as may be the book. As the book is largely descriptive, this is difficult. There is a prologue which exists only to the situation before the auditor and this takes place in the Queen's boudoir.

The play proper is divided into three acts. In the first of these the Queen meets Paul Verwayne. The second act reveals the Queen and Paul together. She is reclining full length on a tiger skin couch. Close above her bends the handsome Paul. The parting comes and with it an end to the three weeks of unadorned, honest affection. In the last act the Queen is slain by her husband. In turn he is slaughtered.

At the American Theater this afternoon a special matinee was given, at which ladies only were admitted, and the venture proved one of the biggest successes of the kind ever attempted in that city. The house was sold out two days before the day of the matinee and hundreds more clamored for admission. This innovation will be carried out here, the date of the special matinee to be announced later.

Elinor Glyn, who was expected to arrive in California in time to witness her own dramatization at the American Theater, will in all probability be here in time to see "Three Weeks" at the Macdonough Theater. Mrs. Glyn will immediately collect $1000 royalty for one week's production of "Three Weeks" at the Macdonough Theater.

Alameda Couple Make Counter Accusations in Action Filed in Court

Intimated That Some Person With Land to Sell is Responsible For Action

ALAMEDA, Aug. 12.—Fernando O. Galvez, formerly employed by the Southern Pacific Company as a brakeman, and who was discharged for drunkenness and inefficiency, is named by Frank N. Berry, as it is constant and ability of his wife Sarah M. Berry, a beautiful and distinguished southern woman, who instituted an action for divorce against him on July 11.

Galvez is well known in this city, and recently was arrested on the complaint made by his wife, charging him with failure to provide for her. Galvez appeared before Judge R. B. Tappan he denied a drunkenness charge and was told unless he went to work at once he would be in case he appeared before him again, sent to San Quentin.

An Alleged Scandal
The cross-complaint in this instance, which was filed by Galvez, with accusations against his "society wife" and reveals an alleged scandal involving a Southern woman and a Mexican with a wife and family.

Galvez is a traveling auditor in the employ of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company and lived with his wife and four children at 1115 Broadway. On this day, Berry, who had been away on business, alleges that he returned to a house devoid of furniture and occupants. Mrs. Berry had departed with her young son where, the defendant knew not, until he located her through friends in Oakland.

The cross-complaint of the defendant comes that on the 15th of June, 1909, he turned to his home, called there was his wife and found Galvez in his bed, clad in a nightgown, and in a state of undress. Galvez, who was in a state of undress, was found in a state of undress. Galvez, who was in a state of undress, was found in a state of undress.

Pardee Supports Pinchot in Fight to Secure Scalp of Secretary of the Interior

MEMBER OF THE CABINET IS ATTACKED

Ex-Governor of California Rips Things Open at Irrigation Congress

SPOKANE, Aug. 12.—John Furson, Chicago millionaire and clubman, took up the defense of Secretary Ballinger of the Interior Department, before the National Irrigation Congress this morning when he attacked the statements of former Governor George C. Pardee of California, concerning the secretary in public land withdrawals.

SPOKANE, Aug. 12.—Ex-Governor Pardee came to the irrigation session today prepared with records of the public land office to substantiate his statements of yesterday when he said that Secretary Ballinger had permitted the public entry of lands containing valuable water power sites.

He took the floor near the close of the morning session and offered to prove what he claimed, that a number of water power companies, notably the Amalgamated Power Company, was favored in the throwing open of these lands.

Mr. Pardee, who is interested in irrigation projects, being a large holder of irrigation bonds, took the floor immediately. "Do you mean to say," he demanded, "that the Secretary of the Interior is dishonest?"

"I make no such claim," replied Mr. Pardee. "I make no charges," replied Mr. Pardee. "I have only stated the facts and the delegates can draw their own inferences."

There was a hubbub in the congress for the next few minutes, during which numerous delegates demanded of Mr. Pardee where he got his information, why he was attacking Secretary Ballinger and other questions. To all of these Mr. Pardee replied that the dam sites had been "gilded up" and that Mr. Ballinger was responsible.

After much wrangling the chair called the house to order and declared an adjournment.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 12.—With the stage carefully set the actors prepared in their lines are an overwhelming audience in its place, the Ballinger-Pinchot battle broke out before the National Irrigation Congress yesterday afternoon and everything that has been expected has happened.

The man who, in the language of an enthusiastic Californian, "ringed things wide open," was Dr. George C. Pardee, former Governor of California. To say that Dr. Pardee was entirely ready with his lines would be a trifle in error because he laid aside a portion of his manuscript for a speech and in his own language "said what he had to say."

FEATURES OF CAMPAIGN TO REMOVE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR BALLINGER

Gifford Pinchot, chief of the United States Forestry Service, is after the scalp of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger on the ground that he has shown favoritism to the water trust, and announces that he will resign unless he accomplishes the removal of the secretary.

Dr. George C. Pardee, ex-Governor of California, has also taken up the fight against Ballinger, and his bitter attacks upon the secretary have involved him in a war of invective with former Senator Turner of Washington.

Secretary Ballinger sat in the sessions of the National Irrigation Congress at Spokane yesterday and listened to the vitriolic attacks of Pardee, and the equally impassioned championing of ex-Senator Turner.

Chief Forester Pinchot smiles triumphantly as Secretary Ballinger leaves the convention hall after hearing the tirades of abuse and the defense of him, made on the floor.

was enacted after the appearance of the Secretary of the Interior had paved the way for the battle.

Battle Expected

That a battle was expected became apparent when it was announced just before the noon adjournment that Secretary Ballinger would speak in the afternoon. The news seemed to spread, and the big auditorium of the State Armory, which has been only comfortably filled in the previous sessions, became unsufferably crowded when the doors were thrown open for the afternoon session.

Mr. Ballinger made rather a triumphant entry surrounded by a reception committee, and when he arose to speak he was cheered for several minutes. Previous to his being introduced, President Barstow of the Irrigation Congress caused to be read the telegram received on Monday from President Taft in which the President assured the congress of his support in reclamation and preservation ideas. Barstow then assured the delegates that the secretary no doubt would assure them of the same allegiance coming from himself.

Secretary Speaks

The Secretary declined, however, to become enthusiastic on this point and proceeded, after a few introductory remarks, to read from a paper his ideas on reclamation and the public domain. One point he made plain and that was that his idea of what has been done by the Secretary of the Interior was under the law.

Then former Governor Pardee began to deliver an address under the subject assigned to him. But he had no use for the manuscript. He opened by saying that he was for Roosevelt and the Roosevelt policies.

"Roosevelt was a President who did things first," he said, "and talked about them afterward. And that's the kind of men we would like to see in public office now."

Dr. Pardee told of the activities of former Secretary Garfield, who under the instructions of Roosevelt, withdrew from public entry many tracts of land under the belief that those lands should be held for the people. Now, he said, Secretary Ballinger has again put up for entry these lands and each tract has in its boundaries a water-power site.

'HOUSE OF MYSTERY' ESTATE SETTLED AFTER 17 YERRS

Thomas Bell Estate Shows a Balance of $250,000 for the Heirs After Debts Are Paid

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—Seventeen years of litigation in the probate court ended today with a decree of settlement in the famous estate of Thos. Bell, one of the well-known millionaires, whose domestic affairs furnished mysteries that remain unsolved to this day. Judge J. V. Coffey and the attorney for the estate were congratulated in court by the heirs and the creditors, when the balance sheet showed that the property, considered bankrupt when it came under the court's decision, amounted to the sum of $250,000. It is said that all the claims against the estate will be settled and leave a balance of $250,000 for the heirs.

When Thos. Bell died of injuries sustained by a fall, it was discovered that

"Mammy" Pleasant, his aged negro housekeeper, had for years drawn large sums of money with his consent. His beautiful home, occupied by the nearest and the two children of the capitalist, became known as the "house of mystery."

"Mammy" Pleasant died without revealing what she had done with the large sums that had come to her for her services were ransacked for weeks by disappointed heirs.

Creditors attempted foreclosure on mortgaged properties of the estate, but were prevented from doing so. Later all money on hand, land, stocks, Central California, reaped an immense harvest.

Former Sergeant Mulgrew Resigns

Policeman Recently Reduced to Ranks Withdraws to Avoid Further Charges

Former Sergeant of Police James Mulgrew, who for many years has been looked upon as one of the most efficient police officials in the local department, has placed his resignation at the disposal of Chief of Police Wilson. Mulgrew was reduced to the ranks three months ago by the Board of Police Commissioners, after he had confessed to drinking while on duty. At that time he had preferred charges against two other members of the department, who were dismissed, but who in turn accused Mulgrew of insubordination while on duty. Mulgrew acknowledged his error and was reduced. Last night Mulgrew was suspended by Chief of Police Wilson for the same cause and a substitute placed on his beat.

Mulgrew, on the advice of his friend, has placed his resignation in the hands of Chief of Police Wilson to be used in lieu of preferring charges. The retiring

Resulting Fire Threatens to Destroy New Jersey Summer Resort

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 12.—Washington Park, a pleasure resort on the Delaware River, ten miles below this city, is burning and probably will be totally destroyed.

The fire was started in the kitchen of the Park restaurant by the overturning of a pan of grease. Mrs. Jane Dugan, a cook, was scalded and died shortly afterward.

The fire quickly spread from the kitchen to the main building and the building was soon a mass of flames.

The fire continued to spread to the surrounding buildings, which are used for various amusement purposes, and it is thought that all of them will be destroyed.

PANAMA CANAL SHIPPING

California Rivers and Harbors League
Advocates Extensive Improvement
Scheme for Oakland Water Front

Favoring the appointment of a special harbor commission to be appointed by the Mayor and City Council for the purpose of preparing plans for harbor improvement in the city of Oakland.

Whereas, The city of Oakland is about to undertake the improvement of the water front upon a scale commensurate with the present and future needs of the port which contemplate a heavy inter-oceanic traffic upon the completion of the Panama Canal, thereby making provision for a class of vessels larger than those now engaged in the general ocean traffic, and

Whereas, Said harbor improvement involves the expenditure of several million dollars, and necessitates the preparation of plans for docks and other related features of marine development entirely new and foreign to the ordinary duties of the regular city officials; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the California River and Harbor League favors the creation of a special harbor commission, consisting of three engineers, to be appointed by the Mayor and City Council as follows: One to be selected by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, one to be selected by the Merchants' Exchange of Oakland, and one to be selected by the California River and Harbor League, whose duties it shall be to carefully consider all harbor plans already prepared, harmonizing the same wherever possible, as well as the vital interest involved therein, and if necessary, to prepare other or additional plans, including provisions for a belt line railroad with the necessary equipment and terminals, with the understanding that said plans are to provide for the ultimate improvement of the entire water front of the city of Oakland at an approximate cost of $25,000,000, but so arranged in character that work upon the same can be carried out in convenient units of not to exceed $2,500,000, each, as commerce may demand, and that the City Council make ample provision for the expenses of said commission.

The project of preparing the local harbor to receive the immense volume of inter-oceanic traffic which is bound to find this coast following the completion of the Panama Canal, received an added impetus at a special meeting of the California Rivers and Harbors League, last night when the above-mentioned resolutions were adopted by unanimous vote of the thirty members of that organization.

In addition to the adoption of the plans drawn up by Engineer J. T. Flynn, for dredging and improving the water front, which have already been given the official sanction of the Chamber of Commerce, they ask the appointment of a special harbor commission by the Mayor and City Council for the preparation and carrying out of plans for a speedy rebuilding of the natural harbor facilities, and the appointment of three engineers whose duties it shall be to consider the respective merits of water-front plans already prepared, harmonizing the same wherever possible, and bringing to the fore the vital interest involved therein.

Want Three Engineers

In accordance with the resolutions, three plan is to have one of the three engineers appointed independently by the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' Exchange and Rivers and Harbors League, respectively, with the object of combining the efforts of the three bodies toward a common end. And it is further proposed to prepare, if the conditions demand, additional plans including provisions for a belt line railroad with the necessary equipment and terminals, with a schedule carefully prepared to correspond with the water-front traffic under the proposed plans. The approximate cost of such a water-front improvement in the neighborhood of $25,000,000, and provision for the same, which would be carried out in convenient installments as commerce may demand, not to exceed more than $2,500,000 each, the City Council to make provision for the expenses of said commission.

Outlines Plans

C. H. Kling, retired banker and capitalist who has been elected president of the new improvement body, which was organized under auspicious circumstances less than a month ago, today outlined the plans of the league, asserting that it is their purpose to bring to a common ground the interests of the varied maritime organizations, all of which are working for the rebuilding of the water-front, by promoting their combined interests. And this, with a view to a complete revolution in transportation cost such as has recently taken place in Germany, Austria and other countries of Europe as well as Canada, as the result of intelligent national waterway development.

Miss Josephine Kearney in Complaint

H. J. WALTERS, PROPRIETOR OF AGENCY IS NAMED

Novel Excuse Made When
Case Comes Up in Judge
Shortall's Court

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—Facing serious charges, preferred by Miss Josephine Kearney, of 2355 Sacramento street, Henry J. Walters, proprietor of a collection agency, with offices in the Mills building, and who claims to have been a former prominent hotel man owning numerous summer resorts throughout the State, including one at Den Lombard, and who says, prior to the earthquake and fire he was auditor at the St. Francis Hotel, is being held in prison on $250 cash bail and $500 bond.

He is accused by Miss Kearney, who is young and pretty, of having attempted to violently assault her last night in her room. Through the fact that she screamed, and fought him off, she claims, she owes her escape.

Enters Her Room

According to her story, told in Judge Shortall's court this morning, Walters, who rooms at the house in which Miss Kearney lives with her sister, entered her room shortly after 11 o'clock last night. She woke up when she felt his arms about her.

"I was awakened by feeling fingers at my throat. At first I was too terrified to speak, but I recognized Walters, who has been rooming in the house for the past five days. He embraced me, and attempted to kiss me. I struggled with him, and succeeded in getting away. A terror frightened him, and he ran from the room."

Placed Under Arrest

"He went through the kitchen door and then I called the other roomers, who came to my aid. Walters, who was in the darkness, fled away for several minutes, and finally came to the front door, apparently with the intention of retreating. He had not been in the house previously. During his absence we had notified the police and Policeman George Sawyer, who came to the house when Walters returned, placed him under arrest."

Walters explains his alleged peculiar conduct in a novel manner. He said:

"There has been a terrible mistake and I am the innocent victim of it. I can understand why Miss Kearney should bring this charge. For some months past I have been suffering terribly from neuritis, and my physician yesterday advised me to beat my face in a hot solution. I came home late last night, my face aching horribly. Seeking relief, I knocked at what I believed to be the landlady's door. I thought I heard an answer 'come in,' and I entered the room. I offered no violence whatever to Miss Kearney, merely asking her if she could heat some water so that I could prepare the treatment. To my knowledge I had never seen Miss Kearney before. Her sister, I believe, is proprietor of the lodging house. I had only been there five days."

Judge Shortall continued the case until August 16.

WARRANT OUT FOR MAN

A warrant was issued this morning from the office of the district attorney for the arrest of John J. Foley, for the alleged desertion of his wife and infant child. The complaint was sworn to by Mrs. Eva Rose Foley, the wife, who is a member of the Salvation Army. It is alleged Foley accepted $275 on a promise to sell the home, valued at $1500, but having mortgaged, and deserted his family.

SUCCESION OF KISSES

"It is Unfair to Judge by Few Extracts," Says Vergilia
Bogue

Vergilia Bogue, queen of the Portola, whose book, "The Strength to Yield," is now in the hands of the publishers, is furious. "It is unfair to judge by a few extracts," she says, "and all the more so because she has been called young—far too young to write a turgid, passionate romance, such as her novel is said to be."

Mrs. Philip Merrill Nichols, who, she asserts, left her husband to pursue the warmer and more gratifying charms of literature, and authoress of "The Fall of the House of Usher," is who has raised the specter of Miss Bogue's youth.

"Oh, the sweet, young thing! How little she knows of life! How sad it is that a pure, young girl should give to the world a version of love wholly contorted by the crimson gleam of lust; should declare herself sponsor in black and white of a kiss which no chaste, clean-minded woman should receive!"—Mrs. Philip Merrill Nichols, in an interview concerning Miss Vergia Bogue's unpublished novel, "The Strength to Yield."

"I am not going to say she means to be spiteful, of course, but—doesn't it seem strange? It is so unkind to judge by a few extracts taken from a book—and by no means the best part of a book—when she never saw the rest and can have no idea of what it really is."

"She seems to think the book is a long succession of kisses. It is nothing of the sort. There are only three kisses from cover to cover and they are only put in as a concession to the public. She doesn't seem to consider whether the book may not be the best thing she has ever written."

"I have tried to be wicked and failed. The book is not at all immoral in the least. It is simply a departure from the old-established standards. It is simply a departure from the old-established standards."

Comments on Youth

The extreme youth of Miss Bogue as mentioned in her book, have to impress Mrs. Nichols deeply and she says: "This is the outpouring of a beautiful young soul. It is a beautiful thing. A kiss is everything. She dreams of it. After marriage she will find that it is a beautiful thing. It is simply a constant of housekeeping. Peace, harmony and companionship constitute the real bliss of married life, but this girl is too young, too ignorant of the ways of the world to know this."

Blaze at 1264 Harrison Street
Does Damage Amounting to Some $5000

Fire, thought to have been caused by a defective gas heater, early this morning destroyed an apartment house at 1264 Harrison street owned by A. A. Denison, and nearly claimed the life of one of the inmates. The house was occupied by Mrs. E. Skillman, her mother, Mrs. Mary E. Rice, and the family of Arthur

Jacks, an employee of the St. Mark Hotel, who is 87 years of age, occupied the top floor of the dwelling. Aside from the natural infirmities of age she suffered from rheumatism also and it was with great difficulty that her daughter and her grandson, aged 16, were able to carry her down stairs through the flames and smoke.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Skillman. She had been suffering from toothache during the night and about 4 o'clock this morning got up and heated some water to apply to the aching tooth. She lit the gas heater to do this. On retiring again she put out the gas stove but was aroused in about an hour by the sound of cracking of flames. She aroused her young son and her first thought was to rescue her mother. The flames at that time were bursting through the dining room and other rooms. The aged woman was carried down the stairs with great difficulty, but was finally placed on the sidewalk beyond harm's way.

Jacks, occupying the lower floor, turned in a still alarm. On the arrival of the fire department the flames had broken forth on all sides and there was little opportunity of saving even a portion of the structure. The fire was under control as far as the danger of spreading to adjoining houses was concerned.

Damage $5000

The damage done by the fire is estimated at $5000. The building was partially covered by insurance. The occupants of the house were able to save a portion of the furniture, but a large part of the household goods were consumed. The loss in this matter is estimated at $1000.

The fire had gained great headway before it was discovered. Mrs. Skillman states that when she was aroused, the room in which the fire originated was burning on all four walls and that the flames rapidly ate their way toward the roof. Had an alarm been turned in earlier there would have been a possibility of saving the building, but as it was, when the fire department arrived, the building had been gutted.

Water Did More Damage Than Fire—Opening Will Be Delayed For 10 Days

The new Pabst Cafe building being erected on Eleventh street near Broadway by the Pabst Cafe Company, Richard T. Kessler, manager, was slightly damaged by a fire in the roof and attic yesterday afternoon. The loss, which was caused more by the streams of water played upon the fire than by the flames, is fully covered by insurance.

The new cafe was to have been opened for business on August 25th, but it will be about ten days before the damage of yesterday can be repaired.

The fire is thought to have been communicated from the kitchen of Newman's Inn, which is at right angles to the cafe.

CURED HAY FEVER AND SUMMER COLIC

A. S. Nussbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Kidney and Bladder Pills, which cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Kidney and Bladder Pills with the same success." JUDGE MELVIN FORGETS LAW FOR BOOK OF VERSE AND SONG

Product of Jurist's Pen Entitled 'Shadows' Is in Hands of Publishers Waiting to Be Sent Forth to Public

Stern justice in the commanding person of Supreme Judge Henry A. Melvin, affectionately known as "Harry" Melvin to every clubman on both sides of the bay, has been tempted to step from the mighty pedestal of the law to trill a lyric now and then while music sounds her lyre.

And with such excellent results that a book of verse and song entitled "Shadows," product of the jurist's facile pen and child of Caro Roma's genius, is in the hands of the publishers waiting to be sent forth with its message into the world of literature.

That the judge has made merry with the muse these many years in and about Bohemia on both sides of the bay every body knows; and that some of it is clever enough to rattle the rattle of a law book, no clubman with a spark of humor will deny.

In his little poem "Remembrance," which first made acquaintance with printers' ink in THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE a short time ago, there is prima facie evidence that law in Alameda county is robbing Pan of his disciple. It reads:

If God should plunge me in perpetual gloom
By taking from my eyes the boon of sight,
I would not rail against His word of doom
Nor curse the solemn hours of endless night.
For Love would come attendant at my call,
And whisper of thy graces rare and bright,
And I'm thy race upon my dune's wall.

In perfect lines of ever-living light,
It has been artistically enhanced with a score of others in the book to which Caro Roma has given the score, and which the publishers will clothe in de luxe fashion. It is artistically decorated in dreamy pastel shading and is far removed from the out-cast of black-stone and cumbersome Kent with which the law dispenser's library is stocked.

In the Old Days
Several years ago, when the judge wore knickerbockers and played mumble-tig on East Oakland corners, and Mrs. Caro Roma of song composition fame was little pink-faced, giggling Carrie Northey, whose parents and the Melvins were neighbors, and before such diverse things as law and libretto were linked in a now learned head, Carrie and Mollie Melvin were cousins. This is why "Shadows" is dedicated to Mollie Melvin, Judge Melvin's sister.

Caro Roma's Career
Caro Roma, who has a studio in New York, has arrived in San Francisco en route to Europe. While here she will give a series of Roma song recitals, accompanying at the piano the vocalists who interpret her compositions. She has written ballads for Caruso, Sennrich, Nordica and Melba, and has a large income from royalties on several hundred productions. The Polish tenor, Amurich, who comes to America next season, sings Roma's songs as encores. She is the only woman holding membership in the Authors' and Composers' Copyright League of America. Prima donna at the Tivoli, a European tour of four years in grand opera, and a decoration from the Queen Victoria for singing an original song, are among the episodes in her career.

TEN THOUSAND PUMPKIN PIES FOR THE FESTIVAL

LONGMONT, Colo., Aug. 12.—Ten thousand pumpkin pies were consumed here today in the observance of Longmont's annual pumpkin festival. For weeks wagon loads of pumpkins have come in from the surrounding country, which is famous for its pumpkins, and every oven in town has been run to its capacity in baking the golden dishes of pie.

The celebration is one of the most unique in the country, being adopted by the farmers as a means of demonstrating the superiority of Colorado pumpkins for pie-making.

WOMAN TELLS HOW TO CATCH BURGLARS

Startle Him First, Run After Him and Keep Punching Until the Police Come

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Freda Jacobs, who has caught more burglars than any other woman on record in New York, explained to Magistrate Cornell her methods of taking prisoners. Mrs. Jacobs said: "I have caught four of them in the last three weeks and I have caught each of them in the same way. To begin with a burglar is more frightened than the people whose property he is stealing. The owners of the property may forget this, but I always remember it."

"So, whenever I see a burglar in the house I shout at him and startle him. Then I run for him. I keep running till I catch him and when I catch him I keep punching him till a policeman comes. There is something about a burglar's life that makes his nerves unsteady. He can't stand to be shouted at and once he is thrown off his mental balance, so to speak, he loses his courage and he can't run a step."

Charles A. Beyer was Mrs. Jacobs' latest prisoner. He was held in $1000 bail.

GOVERNOR SLEPT AFTER MURDERER'S CONFESSION
AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 12.—A Seattle dispatch gives the following story, said to have been told by Governor Hughes at the luncheon tendered him here, concerning the execution of Chester Gillett, who was electrocuted for the murder of his sweetheart, Grace Brown:

"After the conviction and sentence of Gillett his mother called at my office one day, saying that she wanted me to forget her son's mother and simply to leave her present the facts in the case. I told her that two hours she asked, but I refused to stay the execution."

"But thought of that mother made me doubt my own judgment and disturbed my sleep. When I came to the conclusion, that there was an element of doubt that Gillett was the murderer and with my mind made up to commute the death sentence I called up the warden of Auburn prison."

"I will never forget the sensation as long as I live. The warden told me that Gillett had made a confession that afternoon. That night I went to bed and slept soundly."

WARRANT ISSUED FOR ARREST OF JOHN M. OLEY
A warrant has been issued by Judge William Ooley of Brooklyn, N. Y., for the arrest of John M. Oley for felony, to-wit, the deserting of his wife, Rose Oley, and leaving her in a state of destitution.

Oley is a carpenter and resided until recently on Twenty-fifth avenue. According to Mrs. Oley he deserted her a week ago, leaving her penniless, and without any means of support. Constable Allen has the warrant in hand and is searching for Oley.

JEFFRIES-JOHNSON MATCH IS STILL DOUBTED

MONTE ATTELL KNOCKS REAGAN OUT IN THE FOURTH ROUND OF FIGHT AT THE WHEELMEN'S SHOW

Featherweight Champion Proves Himself Absolute Master of Italian—Edwards and Ellis Fight Six-Round Draw

By EDDIE SMITH.

A CLASSIC in its kind is the most concise manner of characterizing the sort of a contest that Monte Attell put up last night at Piedmont Pavilion when he won from Jimmy Reagan in four rounds. Attell and Reagan had been billed for a ten-round event, and the great majority of fans had every reason to believe that the bout would last the limit.

Owing to the smallness of the ring it was supposed that Reagan would be able to "plug" Attell about and that Monte would not be able to use his much talked of cleverness, and it was generally agreed that if Reagan could ever beat Attell he would do so in this small ring. Monte entered the ring as confident as a fighter could, however, and the size of the ring did not seem to bother him in the least. Contrary to all expectations, Attell stood toe to toe with Reagan and outfought, outboxed and outgeneraled him. Monte's work was pretty to look at. He slipped in and around the fast little Reagan with all the ease and grace of one doing a two-step. His punches carried steam behind them and the precision with which they found the mark is a sure enough indication that as a boxer Monte Attell has few superiors in the ring today.

When the time came to finish his man Monte showed better than ever. With his seconds hawking in his corner like a lot of wild men and with more than half of the large sized audience standing on their feet calling to him to finish his work, the little Hebrew was as cool as could be and never missed a punch. Two solid right-hand punches to the jaw sent Reagan sprawling to the floor, where he laid for the count of seven. At the seventh second the game little fellow got to his feet, but obeying a cry from his corner to take the count the half-dazed youngster sank to the floor without being hit and the decision was given to Attell by the writer, who was asked at the last moment to referee the contest.

Attell Leads From Start

When the bell rang for the opening round Reagan took his old time crouching position and Attell his well balanced pose of a boxer. Reagan started from the first to rush the champion about the ring, but to the surprise of Reagan and the crowd as well Attell stood his ground and fought back with a tenacity that he was never before credited with. He outpunched the game little Italian in the first round and at one time sent him reeling from a stomach punch from the effects of which Reagan could not recover several times during the contest Reagan rushed and made an attempt at his old style of fighting, that of carrying an opponent off his balance by the ropes, and there peppering him with all sorts of punches before he can recover his balance. The few times that Reagan did this Attell's shouters shouted their approval and took new heart, but it was only for a few short seconds, however, for the game little champion came back and fought in the open with a willingness to exchange punches that simply ended the scrappy little Reagan.

Attell Fights Close Now

Monte Attell has acquired the knack of fighting close up to a man with both hands working on his object and yet on the defensive at the same time. It is a wonderful accomplishment and when once mastered is an asset that will make it hard for any kind of a fighter to beat him. Monte stood right up to Reagan several times last night with both hands working on his man just as fast as they could and at the same time he was ducking and dodging and blocked with such cleverness that Reagan could not land a punch.

Monte was clearly the better boy last night and won a well deserved contest. Reagan claimed after the bout that he had been sick for the past few days and that he realized now that he would have to take a long rest before fighting again.

Ellis and Edwards Draw

In the special event of the evening Frankie Edwards loved himself out of the decision, for he so angered Referee Billy Roache by his persistent holding that the referee decided against him, even though he did have a little the better of the bout. Edwards met Paddy Ellis, known as the Alameda cyclone, and it was expected that Frankie would jab his head from his shoulders. Surprising the crowd and Edwards as well, Paddy started right after the clever little East Oaklander, and after landing a few solid punches to the body had Edwards holding on for dear life. Paddy kept right at his work during the first three rounds and Edwards held on every time the men came together in a manner that would get him a job in the old maids' home. If Frankie would only love some rich old girl like he did that red-headed fighter from Alameda he would make a great hit, but to hold onto a fighter is considered unethical and the referee became disgusted with Edwards. In the fourth round Frankie let loose and in a very short time the Alameda cyclone was a very light zephyr in the matter of disturbance.

Edwards did not keep up his good work, however, for he again went to holding and refusing to break and he received a draw in a contest with a man whom he can beat any time he opens up and fights. Frankie has no one to blame but himself for the result of last night's contest.

Foley Boxes Two Men

Jim Foley fought two men in one night. First he was brought on with George Leahy and the men had just about started when Leahy fell through the ropes and was so severely injured that he was unable to continue. Foley was then brought back and put on with Jeff Perry, and the boys went four rounds to a draw. Charles Sullivan and Jim Pitton fought six rounds to a draw. Billy Roache refereed all the bouts except the main event and the handsome George Dixon told the crowd who the boxers were.

EASTERNERS ELATED OVER SIGNING OF ARTICLES FOR JEFFRIES-JOHNSON BATTLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The actual signing of a tentative agreement between James J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson for a fight for the world's heavyweight championship, has given great satisfaction to sports men in the East, who figure that Jeffries and his manager, Sam Berger, have won a victory by pinning Johnson down to an actual arrangement for the much-discussed battle. Johnson's conduct during the interview with Berger in Chicago and his willingness to let Jeff dictate the division of the purse, together with his efforts to let Berger create a favorable fight him, have created a favorable impression, and it is possible that Johnson has made more friends than he had in this vicinity.

Followers of the fighting game will be greatly interested in the manner in which Jeffries divides the purse money. Johnson's offer to let Jeff dictate the terms, even to a "winner take all" clause, is believed by many to be a bluff and that Johnson will not really stand for this when the final agreement is signed. This magnanimity by Johnson is taken to mean that he, himself, has little idea that there will be a fight. There is a story current here that Johnson in the last few months has been spending money at such a lavish rate that he has little left and that he was anxious to sign any terms suggested by Berger, in the belief that it would bring him additional advertising, which would be valuable to him in his show business. In fact, there is an underlying current of feeling among the sports men, or perhaps a fear, that Jeffries and Johnson will never fight.

Misses Hotchkiss and Ryan Win at Seattle

Miss Hotchkiss and Miss Ryan had little difficulty in taking the events in which they entered. Miss Ryan of California beat Mrs. Southard of Seattle, 6-2, 6-0, in the ladies' singles. Miss Hotchkiss of California beat Miss R. Dummer of Seattle, 6-2, 6-0, in the ladies' doubles. COMISKEY TOO BUSY TO BE STAKE-HOLDER IN CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—President Comiskey of the Chicago Americans said last night that business affairs would prevent his holding forfeits in the Jeffries-Johnson match.

"I see I was named as stakeholder," he said, "and while I appreciate being selected I will have to pass the matter up. I will be too busy to give it my attention."

BERGER AND JOHNSON AGREE ON ARTICLES FOR CONTEST

Johnson Shows He Has No Fear for the Big Fellow by Allowing Him to Set Split of Purse Money

By EDDIE SMITH.

With wind enough exploded to capsize a ship that was not well settled with ballast, Jack Johnson and Sam Berger got together at Chicago yesterday and signed an agreement binding Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson to a contest for the heavyweight championship of the world, and the biggest sporting event, if it ever comes off, that has taken place within the last century.

The careful reading of the press dispatches from Chicago would seem to force the belief that Berger went to Chicago to bluff with the negro, and do a lot of matchmaking talk, but in the end no signing of articles or no nearer to a match than the men were before they met.

The fact that Berger insisted for a long time that there was no need of signing any agreements and that there was no good of talking of division of purse money until such time as the bids for the match had been opened makes it appear as if Sam had no idea of signing the big fellow up. Johnson insisted that there be a set of articles signed and that the men agree on the split of the purse money, no matter what the purse should be. Berger, with a great deal of stubbornness, objected to this, saying that Jeffries did not know just what he would demand.

Division of Purse

Johnson realized that to leave the splitting of the purse to the last minute meant endless trouble, and he was just as persistent as Berger. After a time it was agreed that three splits should be decided on, and that Jeffries could choose the one he liked best. These agreements call for a 60 and 40 per cent division, a 75 and 25 per cent split and winner take all. Jeffries will now have the opportunity to choose the one he wants and in throwing down the gauntlet to the big white man in this manner Johnson plainly shows that he has little fear of the outcome.

The articles as signed yesterday will have to be revised to some extent when the match is finally made, if it ever is, but the colored man came from the battle of yesterday with flying colors and there can be no denying it. Of course, there is this to be considered: Berger may have been simply holding back to see just how far Johnson would go and for that reason gave him the better of the works, but those who have said that Johnson had any fear of Jeffries should change their minds after the signing of yesterday.

The money forfeits, amounting to $10,000, were to have been placed in the hands of Charles A. Comiskey, the owner of the Chicago White Sox baseball team, and held by him until the bids are opened sixty days from the signing of the articles. Comiskey has refused the honor.

MILLER BOXES SCHULKEN UNITED RAILROADS' FIGHTS

Not a few of the Oakland fans will take the trip across the bay tomorrow night to see big Charlie Miller and Walter Schulken in action before the Railroads' Club. The heavies furnish the wind-up to a long and exciting bout that should provide an evening of real excitement. Interest is added to the main event because of the fact that Schulken and Miller will fight for the title among the amateur heavies of the coast.

For the remainder of its card, the club has signed up the cleverest and fastest amateurs in the ranks. Walter Monahan and Joe Lanum will meet in a special event, also for the honor of throwing out the squabble among the amateur heavies. Con Crowley meets Abe Allen of the Presidio and Jack McGovern and Joe Podesta swap punches.

A quartet of lightweight should go a long way toward settling the question of supremacy in this class.

GOOD RACING AT PLEASANTON TROTTING TRACK

ATHENIANS CAPTURE SECOND STRAIGHT FROM GRAHAM'S SENATORS

ZOMBROUT DEFEATS MAYT, OWNED BY J. TWOHIG, IN THE 2.15 TROT

Large Crowd Enjoys Close Finishes Made by Speed Trotters at the Famous Pleasanton Race Course

PLEASANTON, Aug. 12.—With ideal weather and encouraged by a large throng of patrons of racing, the opening day's races held under the auspices of the California Breeding Association at Pleasanton, started yesterday under the most favorable circumstances.

The events were all high-class and, with the track almost perfect, the harness horses worked in fast time.

The many improvements made at the track by H. E. Armstrong created a surprise for the grandstand was fitted up in top top shape and the building all re-roofed.

The racing was carried off with dispatch which pleased the crowd. The 2.15 class trotting resulted in five exciting heats. According to the conditions the race was limited to five trials at the end of which the judges would decide the winners on their respective positions. The event resulted in an upset, as Mayt, J. Twohig's fast performer, which beat practically the same field at Sallinas, had to be content with fourth place. She acted badly and broke frequently. The race went to Porter brothers' Zombro stallion Zombro, which just beat Katalina of W. Miller's stable.

Katalina scored the first two trials and looked a winner, but Zombro seemed to improve with each race and took the third and fourth trials. The third heat was particularly warm, as Ward, who handled Zombro, showed his skill by opposing Katalina on the wire.

The 2.40 class trotting for a beautiful silver cup was captured by F. H. Burke's Adelle G. with P. J. Kipatrik up. The popular harnessman handled the winner with his usual skill and defeated Borena D. after a number of close brushes. The winner captured the first and third heats. Adelle G. defeated practically the same field as he did at Sallinas in the 2.20 pace in hollow fashion.

A big crowd is expected during the remaining two days of the meet, as such hot performers as Chantley D. Volante and Mootrix are carded to race.

There is considerable anxiety among the followers of the sport to see Volante and Mootrix hook up again. The latter took the measure of Volante in the south, but many of the harnessmen declare Volante was not right when P. J. Kipatrik drove.

Bill went for a mark and covered the mile in 2.20 1-4.

BILL REIDY'S NEW TOY

GRAHAM ANNOUNCES MYERS HAS SIGNED TO PLAY WITH SENATORS FOR BALANCE OF PRESENT SEASON

Tonnesen Twirls Superb Ball and Allows Graham's Tossers but Three Hits—Oaks Win Uphill Game

By HERMAN F. BUDD.

ANOTHER Graham's announces that he has secured the services of "Hap" Myers for the balance of the season, and that the star first sacker will be in a Coast League uniform this afternoon. The reason Myers hesitated about becoming a Senator before was that he did not want his joining Cuthin's club to interfere with the arrangements he made a month ago to become a member of the Boston Americans next season, but when this point was cleared to the satisfaction of Myers' father, who is an attorney, Hap accepted Graham's terms. Yesterday the three had a long talk prior to the game and the matter was practically brought to a close. The only thing standing in the way at present is a ratification from President Taylor of the Boston club. That is expected today.

Myers is a valuable man and will be used on first whenever Gandil is playing the outfield or is on the hospital list. A fancy price has been paid for his work for the rest of the season.

The Athenians are playing a melody the Oakland fans like better and better the more they hear it. It has a rhythm and swing to it which makes it soothing to the ear. What gives it particular sweetness and harmonic grandeur is the fact that it is a triumph in defeat, for in the early part of the season the Oaks believed they had a marvelous pace, but such discordant and incoherent music was never heard before. Now the notes to the popular ballet, "Another victory, another and then another," are growing in magic reality and are finding favor with those who listen to them day by day. If the music keeps up it's bound to be the "rage" soon.

There was a time when the beachers believed a game in danger unless the locals secured a lead of five or six runs, but now no such worry need have over the minds of those whose thoughts are absorbed in the work of the Redjackets. One run is sufficient nowadays, as was well exemplified yesterday when the Oaks took the second straight from the Senators by the score of 3 to 2. Not even when Gandil thumped the ball over the fence and gave the visitors their second tally did the fans twitch in the face or move restlessly in their seats. They had full confidence that Tonnesen would live through the ninth inning and would come out on top with flying colors. No manager need fear the outcome with Tom pitching the fine ball he did. He had everything and then what he did not have the Sacramento players did not know about, and so they gambled nothing, as they imagined that he had them anyway. Out of the men that faced him throughout the nine innings only three were able to connect safely. One was Gandil's home run swing, another Flanagan's Texas leaguer over short and the last Shinn's hit.

First Run Pure Gift

The first run which Sacramento had written down in their book was a gift pure and simple, several of the Athenians donating as the hat was passed around. Cameron tumbled all over himself trying to grab Heister's grounder and McKinnon suddenly developed an attack of butter fingers and made a mess of a ball thrown to him, allowing Hynes' burst to place two men on the sacks. Tonnesen, realizing that he Aristocrat would be unable to tally unless he lost his control, accordingly became seized with the epidemic uncontrollably and walked Shinn and Hildebrand, with the result that Heister was forced over the plate.

As even Rockefeller and Carnegie limit their generosity, so Ed. Tonnesen and after the second frame charity was as unknown quantity to him as Greek to old Doc Frost. The BIG FOUR, CARROLL, DUFFEY LEWIS, HOGAN and CAMERON, believing that there were no more aerial flights in store for their brethren, made up their minds to retrieve a lost game, and so in the fourth the first step was made in pulling the elephant out of the well. Hogan walloped Baum for two sacks, winked at Cameron to get on first at all hazards, and this Don did by winking at Baum until the latter passed him to first. Outfielder Kelly, finding out that Baum did not live to have anyone wink at him, closed his other eye by shifting the optic center when he propelled the horsehide to the center field fence, while Hogan perambulated home.

Winking Game Works

Finding the winking game worked pretty good it was tried in the next frame, and it was here that Oakland captured the goose that laid the golden egg. Carroll winked and then giggled. Immediately Heister, unused to such baseball callisthenics, dropped a grounder which bounded in his direction. It was up to Duffey Lewis to do something and he did it. A cracking two-base drive over short tailed Carroll, the latter skimming the bases like a sky lark. Heister winked at the pitcher and the pitcher winked at the catcher. Such refreshing meditations as two baggers and singles could not but fill Hogan's mind with the deeds of Tyron Cobb, Hans Wagner, Lajoie and Eddie Collins in critical moments, and so he let the wagon tongue fly at one of Baum's choicest offerings. The ball played peek-a-boo with the third baseman and then shooed to the left field, Lewis scoring in the meantime.

Carroll does not have to take a back seat for any one. He is showing that he has the class for this league. In hitting, fielding and base running he has few superiors. A ball in his territory if it can be reached is a "dead one." On bases he is fleet of foot and can toe the mark with any of the printers. Yesterday he stole two of the bases and gave a pretty exhibition how to take a couple of bags on a hit.

Heister is an all around player. He plays the outfield in old and can pitch. Yesterday he was placed on the difficult corner in the place of Janing, who is on the hospital list, and held down the job all right, though a miscue in the fourth allowed the Athenians one run.

Jack McCarthy has been laid off for a couple of weeks to give him a chance to recuperate, as his health has not been of the best lately. Irwin worked alone yesterday.

You often hear of a player being robbed of a hit by a member of the opposite team, but it is seldom that one of his own team mates performs the stunt. It happened yesterday when slow base running by Kelly spoiled Carl Lewis' drive to right field. There was no chance for Flanagan to get Lewis at first nor would there have been to get Kelly at second if he had not stood still and watched the ball go over Rayner's dome in Flanagan's net.

Hogan kept up his usual good work. Besides being strong with the willow he helped Tonnesen out of a tight hole in the second. Rayner sent a drive to the Oakland pitcher and the latter knocked it down, but could not recover it to first. Hogan came to the rescue and winged the Sacramento at first by a couple of feet. It took some mighty quick fielding to do it, however.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—Fighting every moment of a hot and sultry day, the Angels drew first blood in the south.

Before the Angels in one of the best played games here this year. Four thousand fans saw the exhibition. They were well satisfied with their home team, which was favored higher in the percentage column and played were executed which made the blood ring. Godwin saved the day for the locals in the first inning when he notched a hit on a line banger and prevented Tennant and Koolie from scoring.

Tenney and Willis were both in good form, showing five and eight hits, respectively.

For the locals Bell and Daley scored Howard's hit.

In the seventh, Tenney hit a long fly to center that beat Lewis to the fence and scored Orendorf on his home run knock.

Tennant's wild throw, Orendorf's miff of a foul and Tennant's high throw to first were the only errors. There were many pretty fielding stunts.

Willis scored Berry in the second with a two bagger.

MANY STARS IN BASEBALL FIRMAMENT ACQUIRED 'ARCHIBALD IS STAR JOCKEY AT VICTORIA

If one should look over the players of the various clubs and leagues he would find that St. Mary's College has done its share in furnishing players. With Philadelphia there is Harry Krause, in Krause "Connie" Mack has the find of the season. He pitched for St. Mary's College in '08 and '09.

Hurry Hooper, who is now with the Boston club of the American League, played on the Phoenix nine the same year Krause did. Frank Ferguson, who pitched that twenty-three innings 1 to 0, game for Stockton a couple of years ago and who is regarded by some as the equal of Krause, twirled for St. Mary's in '04 and '05. He was made a fine offer by Cincinnati, but did not wish to play professional ball.

Joe Corbett of Oriole fame, at one time the greatest of the great, pitched for St. Mary's in 1890, '91, '92 and '93. It is but lately that he has given up the national game, not being able to get his arm into condition.

"Duffy" Lewis, rated by many as the premier pitcher of the Coast League, is also a St. Mary's College boy. "Duffy" did not play on the Phoenix team, but it was at St. Mary's that he learned the rudiments of baseball. "Rube" Haley, outfielder of the Vernon club, captained the St. Mary's tossers in 1906.

"Charlie" Knight, who deserted the St. Louis Nationals at the commencement of the present season, was one of St. Mary's great outfielders in 1907.

"Daddy" Burns, now catching for the invaders, was in the receiving position for the famous '07 Phoenix team.

It is not generally known that Jack Fitzgerald, of the Senators, pitched for St. Mary's in 1898.

Two of the fastest fielders that St. Mary's College can boast of are "Billy" Waters of Stockton and Joe Joyce of the invaders.

All the Seals and Athenians recognize what a great little pitcher Harry Simpson was when he caught against the professionals at the beginning of the season.

"Daddy" Haley is another product of St. Mary's College.

Such former St. Mary's players as Bart Burke, Tom Peeney, McGregor, Hart, Tom Fitzsimmons, Wallace Wilkinson and Wilcox might also be mentioned.

It can readily be seen the St. Mary's College is capable of producing great lawyers and doctors.

Work of Pitchers in Tribune League Sets Against Right as Well Fans Tongues Wagging As Left Hand Hitters

Sunday's games, opening the season for THE TRIBUNE Baseball League, caused surprise and comment among the fans. The games on all the diamonds were played with few errors and showed work by some of the boys worthy of the older leagues.

Next Sunday's games promise to show more surprise, for the boys will be in better form and those who were defeated have added new material to their teams. The work of some of the pitchers of the various teams shows some fine points and a thorough understanding of the game.

Among the names heard on the lips of the fans are those of Bailey, pitcher of the Heesman team, who struck out thirteen of THE TRIBUNE players; Purdy, who struck out fully as many of the Heesman players; and the Lehnhart team, who struck out twelve of the Heesman and allowed but four hits, and who won his own game. This twirler is the smallest in the league, but is a marvel with his bunch of assorted curves.

Next Sunday afternoon Purdy and Arkerly will meet in a pitchers' contest at Freeman's Park at 2 o'clock. This promises to be a warmly contested game, for these two teams are considered to be as good as any in the league and should draw a large bunch of fans out to see the game.

The San Jose team was prevented from scheduling Sunday games because the Santa Clara county amateur league had secured the grounds every Sunday until November 22.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 12.—Bob Egger has arranged a series of nine games between San Jose and Napa. Four of the games will be played at Luna Park during the Admission Day celebration, the dates being September 2, 9, 10 and 11.

Egger's team was prevented from scheduling Sunday games because the Santa Clara county amateur league had secured the grounds every Sunday until November 22.

After a short vacation, the Piedmont Independents have reorganized and would like to play any day of the week. Address all challenges to George Cunniff, 82 Linda Avenue.

MANY STARS IN BASEBALL FIRMAMENT ACQUIRED 'ARCHIBALD IS STAR JOCKEY AT VICTORIA

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 12.—George Archibald of Oakland rode thirteen winners at the Oak Bay track during the past week, and has clinched his title to first place in the list of winning riders with a total of 32 winning mounts to his credit. His nearest competitor, Lyman, is sixteen winners behind Archibald, and with the meeting but three more days to run it is hardly possible for him to lead for the season. Archibald, although he has ridden only a little over half the period of the meeting, has clearly demonstrated that he is the peer of the riding colony here. His work has been of the clean-cut variety, he has won more favorites than any other boy, and he has incurred no penalty from the officials. Lyman rode eleven winners during the week and is now second on the list. This rider's work also is good, although he does not usually excite the good judgment that characterizes the riding of Archibald. Brooks rode two winners during the week, while Wheeler scored a winner. Kough had three winners, while Powers and Callahan each had two. Following is the list of riders who have ridden two or more winners during the first fifty-five days of the meeting:

McCredie's Club Takes Another From Vernonites

PORTLAND, Aug. 12.—Haggen Hogan took the locals off their feet by introducing to the world a young bushy by the name of Vance, who has aspirations of being a second Mathewson. While the youngster made his debut by only allowing six hits he was wild as a Texas steer and passed seven Seavers to the first sack.

Graney was equally as uncontrollable, but retrieved himself by striking out eleven Vernonites. The one redeeming feature of the game was a triple play pulled off by Coy, Brashear and Brown.

AFTER A HARD TRIP

By C. E. MOYES.

The Regal Plugger, mudily and battered, but still running sweetly, arrived in Oakland at noon today. The car will be on exhibition in the salesrooms of the Jones Auto Company, at Seventeenth and Telegraph.

A. C. Hill, local Maxwell agent, tells of an interesting trip to Lakewood, with L. W. Blake, in Mr. Blake's Maxwell touring car.

The start was made Saturday afternoon, the route taken from Oakland by way of Fort Costa, and on to Cleveland, where the night was spent. Hill states that the roads are in fairly good condition on this route, but some dusty stretches are found. From Cleveland the party proceeded on up over the Pieta grade to Soda Bay, Witter and the many points of interest in that section of the country. The return trip was made by way of the Long road, as it is called. Most motorists prefer to pay the toll on the Pieta grade than to tackle this long, steady ascent, but Blake wished to see how his car would take the trip and also see that part of the country, so this road was taken. It is a very steep rise for about seven miles, by the speedometer, and then comes a dip, after which the climb begins again. The view from the summit is, however, very beautiful. The road on this long grade is deep with dust, making double work for the engine, which Mr. Blake was more than pleased with. In fact, there was not a moment's trouble with the car in any way, not even a puncture marring the pleasure of the trip. Mr. Blake and Mr. Hill were accompanied by their wives.

F. J. Peacock, manager of the local branch of Olson & Hunter, local agents for the Winton and Mitchell cars, has received word that the Mitchell Motor Car Company will this year make and place on the 1910 market a six-cylinder car. This will be a great addition to the ranks of the popular car, and will have the distinction of being the lowest priced six-cylinder car in the market.

President Fred J. Linz and Mrs. Linz returned Tuesday afternoon from an extended trip to the Maxwell-Bellevue factory, at Tarrytown. Linz is most enthusiastic over this year's model G, and states that already the car is attracting a great deal of attention. While in Tarrytown, the annual conference of the Maxwell dealers took place, and the policy of the coming season was discussed. Many side trips of interest to the local branch were made. Mr. and Mrs. Linz have a car of their own, a Winton, and they report bright prospects all along the line.

The Maxwell-Bellevue factory Company reports the arrival of a carload of Maxwell Junior runabouts, yesterday. Many of these little cars have already been sold, and will be delivered within the others may be seen on the floor of the salesroom of the company, on Van Ness avenue, in San Francisco.

L. V. Lantz, manager of the Speedwell Motor Car Company, of California, has returned from a business trip to the east. Lantz also reports the arrival of a carload of Speedwell cars, some of which have been sold.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—Addie Porter, a 17-year-old girl, was picked up by Policeman Joseph Hayden in a cheap lodging house on the waterfront this morning, after she had wandered around the city for eight days, fearful of the reprimand which awaited her should she return to her parents. Meanwhile, the distracted father and mother of the girl were employing private detectives and sending messages hither and thither to friends throughout the State in a frenzied effort to locate their daughter, and their minds fully made up to forgive her should she come back.

Went With Soldier
J. L. Becker, father of the girl, is proprietor of the ladies' furnishing goods store at 1722 Page street. For some time she had been keeping company with a soldier named Isaac Brown against the wishes of her parents, and had often been reprimanded for going out with him. She had been instructed that she must keep earlier hours, and be home at a specified time when she went anywhere to spend an evening.

On August 4 she left the house with another friend to visit a place of amusement and spend the time limit. Fearing to return home she sought refuge with a friend, who kept her secret, and then leaving her, wandered around on her own account. After two days' quiet search the father reported the matter to the police, and Policeman Hayden found her at the Perry lodging house, 48 East street, at 4:30 this morning. She had taken a room there at 11 o'clock last night, spending twenty-five cents out of the thirty cents in her possession for the night's lodging.

Takes Girl Home
Her father was notified and she was taken home. When seen later in the morning, Mr. Becker declared that he hoped to keep his daughter with him, and that he was going to let her go by-gones. He declared that save for securing a statement from the girl that she had not seen Isaac Brown since leaving home, he had not questioned her, and did not intend to pay into what happened on those eight dark days while he was making a vain search for his daughter.

The young woman herself seemed repentant, and said she would remain at home in the future.

Wrs. Mary Ranchadore Tells
Startling Story to San Francisco Police*RELEASED FROM PRISON
AFTER FIERCE STRUGGLE*Husband Afraid to Act, Little Daughter Notifies the Authorities

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—After being held a prisoner for thirteen months at the home of Giuseppe Gallo, a retired rancher of 282 Presidio avenue, Mrs. Mary Ranchadore was rescued by Detectives Gallagher and Balleto today after a terrific struggle with the woman's captor, who, armed with a huge knife, fought them with the strength of a madman until he was beaten insensible.

When they broke down an inner door to the house they found Mrs. Ranchadore in a swoon from the effects of the sensational rescue. The woman's tale is almost unbelievable. Daughter, with the courage which he Ranchadore, who, with the couple's four children, lives at 1235 Vine street, San Jose, has, although aware of her imprisonment, been kept in such abject fear of Gallo on account of the latter's threats of violence if interfered with that he has not notified the police.

Leaves Her Children
The first intimation of the trouble was reported to the police this morning by the thirteen-year-old daughter of the woman, who, urged on by letters from her imprisoned mother, told the police the story. Shortly after the fire, Mrs. Ranchadore states, her husband introduced Gallo to her, and he became a friend of the family.

Some time afterwards Ranchadore left for New York, where he remained for some time. During his absence Gallo forced Mrs. Ranchadore, by threats of bodily harm, to leave her four children in San Jose and come with him to San Francisco. She has kept in a small house for several weeks, she claims, each day, when he left, being locked in.

Threatened Murder
Finally she effected an escape and rejoined her children in San Jose. Soon Gallo followed her and forced her to come back with him to San Francisco. In the meantime Mrs. Ranchadore had written her husband, and the latter hastened to San Francisco to help his wife.

When he called upon Gallo the latter threatened to murder him if he attempted to take away his wife. So inspired with fear was the husband that he allowed his wife to remain in the clutches of her rapist until his daughter, with the courage which he did not possess, took the step which today resulted in one of the most sensational rescues and the disclosure of the most sensational tales ever related to the police.

Gallo is being held on a kidnapping charge.

STREET CASE GOES TO SUPREME COURT*City Fighting to Open Thirty Streets Around the Waterfront

Superior Judge Ogden's denial of the motion of a new trial made by plaintiff in the suit of the city of Oakland against the Oakland Water Front Company, was simply a perfunctory ruling for the purpose of getting the case before the Supreme Court.

The suit has been pending in the courts since 1893, and the records in the case, covering about 5000 printed pages, were destroyed in the San Francisco fire. They have only recently been restored, hence the renewed activity in the litigation.

The termination of about thirty streets in territory extending from the north arm of Lake Merritt, around the estuary westward along the bay shore, to the foot of Twenty-second street is the basis of the appeal which the municipality will now take.

Want Streets Opened

It is contended by the city that these thoroughfares should be opened through to the waterfront without compensation through condemnation proceedings, the contention is resisted by the Oakland Water Front Company.

In the original suit title to lands between ordinary high and low tide was involved. One appeal resulted in a substantial victory of defendant company and the question involving the termination of the streets is an open one.

The dispute as to title, the street and matter is practically all that is contemplated in the pending appeal, this on the authority of Attorney W. R. Davis, chief special counsel for the municipality in this suit.

DEFICIENCY JUDGMENTS OF ANDRENO SWANSTON

Deficiency judgments just filed in the Superior Court in the suits brought by Andreno Swanston against the Sedon Milling Company of Emeryville, of which H. G. Torley was president and A. D. Taylor secretary, to recover on two promissory notes for $10,000 each, with interest and costs of litigation, show that the loaning of $20,000 by Swanston to the corporation was a very disastrous financial risk for him.

The amount of the judgments awarded to Swanston by the Superior Court was $19,819.55 on one note and $10,749.34 on the other, making a total of $30,568.89. This was secured by first mortgages on the plant. At the foreclosure sale there was a total deficiency of $17,189.79.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 12.—Living for a week in a steel tank which he stole from A. Beauchamp of 24 California street, proved too much for Lester Kelly, a laborer, and he died at the Central Emergency Hospital this morning after two days' imprisonment in the city prison.

Turnkey J. Cowie notified Kelly in convulsions as he sat in his cell at 6:30 this morning, and he was rushed to the hospital, where he arrived in a comatose condition. While the physicians were working over him he died and the morgue was notified.

Kelly was arrested by Detectives Cornish and Mackey on Madrid avenue, where he had taken the large tank on a dory. An autopsy will be held to determine the cause of death.

Optical
Service*No. 25

At this season of the year the dusty roads of the country and the white pavements of the city throw back the sun's rays with shocking force.

Sensitive eyes are soon affected. The eyeballs are shot with thin streaks of blood, the tissues swell, the lids inflame, the eyes enter an irritated condition that, neglected, leads to graver troubles.

Tinted glasses afford protection. We carry many varieties, pink, amber, blue and all the shades of London smoke are here. Our service provides them at trifling cost. For as little as 25 CENTS you can from us obtain a pair of glasses that will arrest the sun glare, keep out the dust, shade and make cool the eyes.
